Preview to Organic Chemistry

Curie Learning is excited to introduce our new partnership with MEDucation!

This online course is intended for undergraduate students in their 1st or 2nd year of college who aspire to become a medical professional and who are planning to soon take Organic Chemistry as part of their pre-med program.

Organic Chemistry (Orgo) is a foundational course that plays a crucial role for students pursuing careers in healthcare, including Pre-Med, Pre-Dental, Pre- Optometry, and Bioengineering.

Often considered a "weed-out" class, Orgo is essential not only for building a deep understanding of chemical principles but also for preparing students for advanced coursework in these fields.

The knowledge and skills gained in this course are directly applicable to future careers in medicine and related professions. Additionally, success in Organic Chemistry can have a significant impact on a student's GPA, which is an important factor in applications to medical, dental, and optometry schools.

Our Preview to Organic Chemistry class offers students a solid head start for the rigorous course ahead. In this course, we will not teach every concept covered in your specific organic chemistry class, but it will certainly provide a strong foundation for logical organic chemistry thinking skills. This introductory course provides the tools necessary for students to master the material and excel in their academic journey, helping to lay the groundwork for a successful healthcare career.

Pre-Med Counseling and Advising

Curie Learning is excited to introduce our new partnership with MEDucation!

Pre-med counseling is designed for aspiring medical students. We accept undergrad college students and prepare them for medical school application. We also accept high school student who wish to apply for a BS/MD college program.

Guidance during this process makes an incredible difference; not only can it improve the applicant's chances for acceptance, but can also decrease stress by receiving practical help and by knowing exactly what to expect.

Our expert advisors, including doctors, provide personalized guidance to students as they build their resumes for medical school. This includes helping them find valuable clinical experiences, shadow healthcare professionals, select the right extracurriculars, and identify impactful summer activities. All pre-med counseling is individualized, taking into account each student's strengths, weaknesses, and specific goals, ensuring that they receive the most effective guidance to navigate the complex medical school application process.
