Jessica Guarnieri

Jessica is a Senior Consultant for Dedicated Designs and Consulting and her focus is new special education teachers who are looking for a greater level of support through their first years in the classroom.

Through her social media sites on LinkedIn and Facebook, she serves an audience of 2000+ each week. Jessica delivers advice on positive teaching mindsets, behavior management, team leading skills, organizational strategies and parental relationships and collaboration.

Jessica has had 15+ years experience training staff, as well as mentoring and coaching new teachers. She is certified by Cornell College to train Therapeutic Crisis Intervention, has been a lead teacher for her district and has been recognized as an Excellent Educator of Western New York. She has also served as an adjunct professor in a graduate program for D'youville University.

When Jessica is not mentoring or coaching new special education teachers, she can be found traveling, enjoying time with her family, exercising or relaxing at the beach.

MAJOR PROGRAMS

The SOS Behavior Planning System supports multi-disciplinary teams facing intense and challenging student behaviors. The goal is to create and implement therapeutic, strength based plans to address the needs students are faced with.

This 6 week intensive training and support program will utilize staff skills along with communication and collaboration strategies to create plans that identify and build upon student strengths. Support will focus on leading the team through the process of identifying their inner genius, plan creation, plan implementation and identifying next steps.

Group coaching sessions are built on trust and Jessica knows how to quickly build relationships to support and create reflective conversations that lead to growth and collaboration.

NEW TEACHER TRAINING- TEACHERS ON T.O.P.

The Teachers On T.O.P program supports new and developing teachers to effectively transition from theory to the real classroom. The goal is to engage in reflective practices, implementation of skills, strategies for success and excellence in application.

This 12 week program will support and empower teachers with individualized strategies focused on team leadership, organization (systems, paraprofessionals, curriculum), and parental relationships

With extensive experience, Jessica has had great success in creating and executing plans with new teachers.

GEN ED TEACHERS

Professional Development

These 60- 180 minute training sessions will help participants to learn strategies around challenging behaviors. Strategies will focus on identifying the behavior, the root cause, and how to address the situation using strength based approaches.

Support will focus on mindset shifts needed in order to empower teachers to positively support student growth.

The Dedicated Designs and Consulting team has over 20 years of experience working with children with intense student behaviors, specializing in professional learning around behavior support techniques.
