Clean-Up & Sanitation

The first step and the most important one as Rodent feces are not only dangerous; the smell of rodents' urine attracts more rodents into your home. We first sanitize the area, then we work to remove all rodent feces, attic debris and old insulation using state of the art equipment and hard labor. As a final step we repeat the sanitation process for the second time.

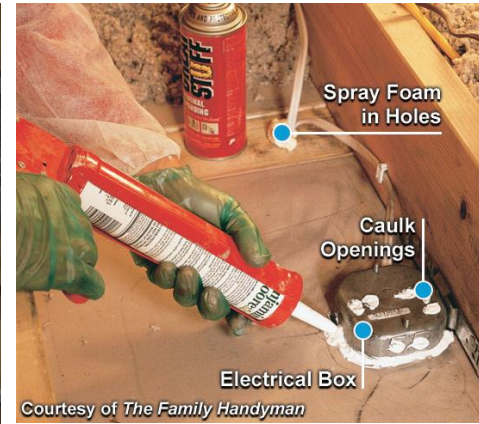

Rodent Proofing

Once the attic is clean it's easier to identify small entry point that might have been hidden under dirt or old insulation. This process requires expertise and experience but in case we missed anything we have a team dedicated to customers satisfaction that will follow up and make extra repairs if necessary, free of charge.

Air Sealing

Small air leaks into uninsulated attic space are a major source of heat loss in many homes. We work hard to seal all air leaks; around pipes, recessed light fixtures, electrical plugs and frame joist. Sealing leaks and adding insulation can improve the overall comfort of your home and help to fix many of these common problems: Outside noise, humidity, mold and insects entering your home.

Ductwork Repairs

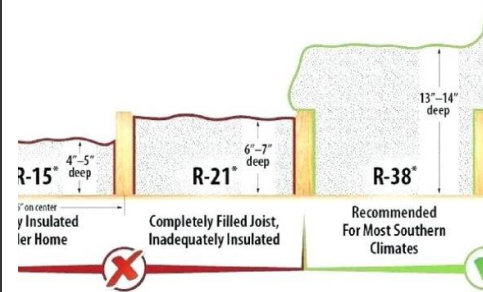

Damaged ductwork releases toxic fumes into your home. We will replace it and when necessary, we will also insulate the ducts in attics. With improved indoor air, you'll be on your way to a safer and healthier environment for you and your family.

Insulation

According to the Department of Energy, heating and cooling account for 50 to 70% of the energy used in the average American home. Inadequate attic insulation and air leakage are leading causes of energy waste in most homes. Properly insulated attic (R38) will help reduce your energy bills and make your home more energy efficient, more comfortable and a healthier place to live in.

Does Your Attic Insulation Measure Up?

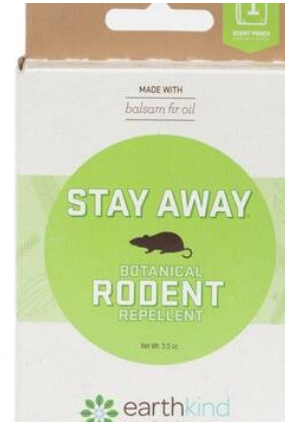

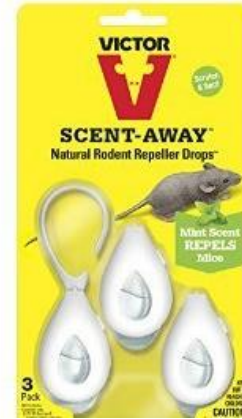

Dept. of Energy attic insulation levels for commonly used fiberglass, mineral wool, and cellulose insulation assuming are sold as 2' x 8" but usually measure closer to 1.5" x 7.5"

Rodent Prevention

After a full attic project, you shouldn't have a rodent issue anymore but just as an extra precaution, we will install rodent repellent in your attic and crawl space. This will help to prevent re-infestation as research, experience and YouTube videos clearly prove; Rats dislike peppermint oil scent.

Brick & Hammer

Rodents can be very creative; in addition, they are equipped with very strong teeth which contain iron. Like beavers their teeth sometimes seem yellowish red due to the presence of iron. In other words, a wooden house is not really a match for rodents. However, once a full attic project is completed, chances of reinfestation are very low. One issue rises when living in California, earthquakes are not a rare thing. Earthquakes can damage home structure and create new rodent entry points; therefore, our warranty is limited to 1-5 years Free of charge (depending on each case) and discounted rate then after.
