

WRESTLING 101

This is a brief guide for new and inexperienced wrestlers, fans, and parents. It does not have every question you may have, but it should help.

Weight Certification Info

Wrestlers will lose weight (Mostly fat) during the season due to the level of fitness we maintain.
This is normal, monitored, and safe.

All Wrestlers will be weight certified through NWCA

All Wrestlers will take a Hydration Assessment (mid Oct)

All Wrestlers will be given a Body Fat Test

NWCA uses an Optimum Performance Calculator (OPC) generating their individual safest weight options; Lower Weight Class may not be the better weight class!

Weight Management = Discipline!!

WEIGHT CLASSES BOYS

The weight class is the most that a wrestler can weigh and still compete in that weight class.

example: 106.0 is ok and 106.1 has to go up to 113

106 | 113 | 120 | 126 | 132 | 138 | 144 | 150 | 157 | 165 | 175 | 190 | 215 | 285

WEIGHT CLASSES GIRLS

The weight class is the most that a wrestler can weigh and still compete in that weight class.

example: 100.0 is ok and 100.1 has to go up to 105

100 | 105 | 110 | 115 | 120 | 125 | 130 | 135 | 140 | 145 | 155 | 170 | 190 | 235

WRESTLING

Regulations

Each Wrestler will Check In at the scoring table and Shake hands with the referee

Wrestlers shake hands

Three Periods-each period will be two minutes long.

First Period starts with both wrestlers on their feet (Neutral Position) At the beginning of the Second Period, a red and green disc will be flipped to decide who has choice first. The assigned colors are pre-determined before the match starts

Third Period, the other wrestler has choice-Top/Bottom/Neutral

If at any time a wrestler holds his opponents' shoulder blades to the mat for two consecutive seconds that is a PIN and the match is over regardless of the score

If at any point the wrestler has 15 or more points OVER his opponent, the match is over and he wins by technical fall (TECH fall). The Wrestler with the most points at the end of the Third Period is declared the winner. Wrestlers will shake hands again and the referee will raise the winners hand.

WRESTLING

Match Points
