

Disclaimer

Vee's Notary Services operates strictly in accordance with applicable state and federal laws. Our notaries are not attorneys licensed to practice law, and we do not provide legal advice, prepare legal documents, or determine the legal validity of any documents. Clients are solely responsible for ensuring that documents are complete and accurate prior to notarization.

Not Legal Advice:

- Services do not constitute legal advice or representation. Consult an attorney for legal guidance.

Accuracy of Information:

- While we strive for accuracy, we cannot guarantee completeness or reliability. Clients are responsible for verifying documents.

Limitation of Liability:

- We are not responsible for damages, errors, or issues from website or service use.

External Links:

- Links to third-party sites are for convenience; we do not endorse or control them.

Service Limitations:

- Notary services follow Florida law. Clients must provide valid ID and documents.

Changes to Disclaimer:

- Updates posted on the website; continued use constitutes acceptance.

All notarial acts are performed based on proper identification and the willingness and awareness of the signer. We reserve the right to decline service if identification is insufficient, documents are incomplete, or if there are concerns regarding coercion, competency, or legality.

By using our services, you acknowledge and agree that Vee's Notary Services is not responsible for the content, legality, or enforceability of any document presented for notarization.
