Opioid Crisis

Assumed a leadership role in addressing opioid addiction as a public health crisis with important opportunities for intervention by the police officers who contend with its effects:

- Contributed to a 50% decrease in opioid overdose deaths (2017–2018) in a state that saw a 20% increase elsewhere, with no overlap in confidence intervals between comparison groups in a Fisher’s Exact test. (See: Jickling, K. (2019, February 14) “Opioid deaths rise in Vermont but plummet in Chittenden County,” Seven Days (link))
- Preliminary data suggest decline has been maintained from 2017 through 2019
- In collaboration with the county prosecutor, was first jurisdiction in the nation to formally and categorically decline to arrest and prosecute for the unprescribed possession of buprenorphine (2018). In 2020, citing our precedent, Philadelphia followed suit.
- Created Citywide Opioid Policy Coordinator position, a public health professional who:
  - Evaluates policing strategies for proper public health goals and metrics
  - Coordinates responses for at-risk persons at biweekly interagency meetings
- Created and led the city’s multi-disciplinary “CommunityStat” approach to the opioid crisis, instrumental to:
  - Elimination of the county treatment wait list
  - Establishing low-barrier buprenorphine-based addiction treatment induction in the emergency department, state prison system, syringe exchange, etc.
  - Screening all arrestees for addiction in order to directly offer treatment and referral options at the police department prior to arraignment
- Since 2016, staffed a data analyst with a Master’s of Public Health and training in biostatistics and epidemiology
- Conducted syndromic surveillance of various drug types by refining the police records management system to more accurately capture drug-related incidents, and combined this data with qualitative surveillance from the syringe exchange and narcotics investigators. Detected a rapid rise in stimulant-related incidents in 2019
- Equipped all members of the department with Naloxone, the overdose reversal drug, establishing it as the department’s standard of care in police response to overdoses

Use of force and de-escalation

- Helped develop, and was one of seven departments nationwide to pilot, the Police Executive Research Forum’s Integrating Communications, Assessments and Tactics (ICAT) curriculum for reducing force and promoting de-escalation in policing
- Designed, procured and deployed the first Emergency Response Vehicle in Vermont, allowing trained officers to isolate, contain de-escalate violent and distressed suspects
- Increased inventory of team-based less-than-lethal equipment deployed to the field

- Ended BPD’s participation in the Department of Defense military equipment program
- Gave 2018 Chief’s Award for use of restraint in a potential deadly force situation

Officer wellness, safety and professional development

- Formally investigated Vermont Police Academy training scenarios that resulted in a pattern of concussions, resulting in changes to training that reduced injury rates
- Created the police physician program, enlisting physicians who volunteer to be on call to respond to medical emergencies concerning officers and their families, offer guidance and second opinions, and prioritize medical treatment of police and their loved ones
- Created the paid graduate educational leave program, providing one officer per year with full pay and benefits while attending graduate school out of state: in 2016 to Harvard for public administration, and in 2018 to an MFA writing program in Alaska
- Administered officer safety and wellness survey in collaboration with the National Police Foundation in April 2018, to define and direct safety and wellness efforts

Disparate outcomes and bias in policing

- Examined disparate outcomes in traffic and other enforcement, and implemented training to reduce disparities in enforcement and other outcomes:
  - Sent officers to the National Memorial for Peace and Justice and the Legacy Museum in Montgomery, Alabama, to develop a curriculum on the legacies of racism and racial violence in our nation, and their intersection with present day policing
  - Gave officers access to the distribution and outcomes of their traffic stops by race, and the distribution and outcomes of their anonymized peers, for comparative purposes. Car stops declined by over 60%, racial disparities in traffic enforcement narrowed, and vehicle accidents with injuries remained steady.

- Created domestic violence investigator position, resulting in increased reports of domestic violence, and then a 20% reduction, the result of effective interventions
- Obtained a Justice Assistance Grant to expand the size of the agency by 5%

Selected Burlington Police Department analyses for general consumption

- 2019 Conducted car stop race data analysis that presented areas of increasing racial parity (such as warnings vs. tickets), a decrease in searches of minority motorists, and equal search success rates across races, as well as areas for improvement, such as the overall stop and search rates of drivers of color
- 2019 Systematic collection and analysis of bail and arraignment outcomes in Burlington by race, gender, charge, judge, conditions imposed, and bail amount, examining the data for evidence of bias and disparity in the arraignment process (n = 1,788; 17 variables)
- 2019 Conducted a comprehensive analysis, spanning seven years, of use of force. Prior report examined odds ratios and controlled for race and charges
