Professional Experience

Chief of Police, Burlington, Vermont

2015–2019 Led approx. 145 employees with an $18m annual budget in Vermont's largest city.

Opioid Crisis

Assumed a leadership role in addressing opioid addiction as a public health crisis with important opportunities for intervention by the police officers who contend with its effects:

- Contributed to a 50% decrease in opioid overdose deaths (2017–2018) in a state that saw a 20% increase elsewhere (See: Jickling, K. (2019, February 14) “Opioid deaths rise in Vermont but plummet in Chittenden County,” Seven Days (link))

Use of force and de-escalation

- Helped develop, and was one of seven departments nationwide to pilot, the Police Executive Research Forum's Integrating Communications, Assessments and Tactics (ICAT) curriculum for reducing force and promoting de-escalation. Ended BPD's participation in the Department of Defense military equipment program.

Inclusion, diversity and outreach

- Determined Vermont Police Academy entrance examination had outsized effects on minority attrition; had ESL-trained BPD employee reword question stems; created preparation manual and tutoring program
- Convened citywide clergy meetings on matters of equity, diversity, immigration, etc.
- Conducting outreach efforts to Burlington's communities, in these communities: street festivals, ice cream with a cop, coffee with the chief, orientations with New Americans
- Engaged Muslim community leaders to teach officers about Islamic high holy days

Disparity and bias in policing

- Sent officers to the National Memorial for Peace and Justice and the Legacy Museum in Montgomery, Alabama, to develop a curriculum on the national legacies of racism and racial violence and their intersection with present day policing
- Gave officers access to the distribution and outcomes of their traffic stops by race, and the distribution and outcomes of their anonymized peers, for comparative purposes. Car stops declined by over 60% and racial disparities in traffic enforcement narrowed
- Brought Bryant Marks Ph.D., Morehouse College Professor of Psychology to train all Burlington Police Department employees in the identification and reduction of implicit bias

Transparency and accountability

- Developed the Burlington Police Department's online transparency portal
- Created Vermont's first municipal online citizen complaint reporting form

Crime and public safety

- Started long-term, consistent foot patrols in high-need areas that reduced crime.
- Employed a multiagency team that uses due process, referrals and alternatives to arrest when criminal activity poses a threat at homeless encampments

Selected Burlington Police Department analyses

- 2019 Conducted car stop race data analysis that presented areas of increasing racial parity as well as areas for improvement
- 2019 Systematic collection and analysis of bail and arraignment outcomes in Burlington by race, gender, charge, judge, conditions imposed, and bail amount, examining the data for evidence of disparity in the arraignment process (n = 1,788; 17 variables)
- 2019 Conducted a comprehensive analysis, spanning seven years, of use of force. Prior report examined odds ratios and controlled for race and charges
- 2016 Analyzed two years of Medicare opioid prescribing data (briefed to UVM Medical Center and the Vermont Department of Health) (link)
- 2016 Analyzed six years of applications to the BPD to determine where minority applicants are most likely to drop or be eliminated (n = 1,200)

New York City Police Department

- 2014–2015 Commanding Officer, Office of Strategic Initiatives, Deputy Inspector.
- Led a dozen reengineering teams in “Platforms of Collaboration,” identifying ways to eliminate silos and engage in collaborative work.
 - Helped design curriculum for retraining all patrol officers in street engagements in response to consent decree to reform stop question & frisk.
- 2013–2014 Commanding Officer, Project Management, Police Commissioner’s Office, Deputy Inspector.
