Professional Experience

Chief of Police, Burlington, Vermont

2015–2019 Led approx. 145 employees with an $18m annual budget in Vermont's largest city.

Opioid Crisis

Assumed a leadership role in addressing opioid addiction as a public health crisis with important opportunities for intervention by the police officers who contend with its effects:

- Contributed to a 50% decrease in opioid overdose deaths (2017–2018) in a state that saw a 20% increase elsewhere (See: Jickling, K. (2019, February 14) "Opioid deaths rise in Vermont but plummet in Chittenden County," Seven Days (link))

Use of force and de-escalation

- Helped develop, and was one of seven departments nationwide to pilot, the Police Executive Research Forum's Integrating Communications, Assessments and Tactics (ICAT) curriculum for reducing force consistent with officer safety.

Transparency and accountability

- Developed the Burlington Police Department's online transparency portal
- Created Vermont's first municipal online citizen complaint and compliments reporting form

Crime and public safety

- Started long-term, consistent foot patrols in high-need areas that reduced crime.
- Employed a multiagency team that uses due process, referrals and alternatives to arrest when criminal activity poses a threat at homeless encampments

Selected Burlington Police Department analyses

2019 Conducted an annual comprehensive car stop data analysis

2019 Systematic collection and analysis of bail and arraignment outcomes in Burlington by charge, judge, conditions imposed, bail amount, race, and gender examining the data for irregularities across judges in arraignment (n = 1,788; 17 variables)

2019 Conducted a comprehensive analysis, spanning seven years, of use of force. Prior report examined odds ratios and controlled for race and charges

2016 Analyzed two years of Medicare opioid prescribing data (briefed to UVM Medical Center and the Vermont Department of Health) (link)

2016 Analyzed six years of applications to the BPD to determine where applicants of various demographics are most likely to drop or be eliminated (n = 1,200)
