This Is Not A Dress Rehearsal

Earlier this month I stumbled across this phrase that read, "This Is Not A Dress Rehearsal." The phrase was referring to the one life that we all have been given here on earth. It was talking about how we as individuals must take responsibility for the choices that we make while we are here and how it's ultimately up to us to make the most out of this thing called life.

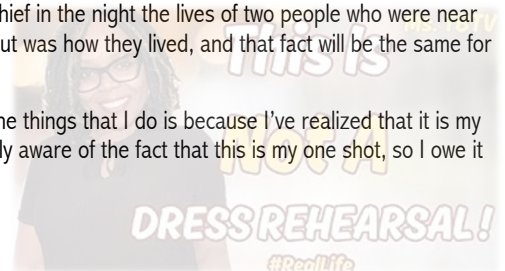

Upon first reading this statement, I proceeded to post a video on my YouTube Channel/Facebook with that very title. I felt obligated to remind those who listen, follow, and subscribe to my various platforms, that we have one chance to get whatever it is done that we need or want to get done so... Get to it! Because, again everyday spent not working on you is truly another day lost.

Sadly, in the true fashion of life, I was reminded yet again how precious this one life is. Like a thief in the night the lives of two people who were near and dear to many was complete. Although their time here was over, the one thing that stood out was how they lived, and that fact will be the same for you and me. How are you living? How did you live?

Well, if you know anything about me, then you know that my primary reason for doing most of the things that I do is because I've realized that it is my duty to make an impact on this world. To guide, support, motivate, inspire, uplift, etc. I am fully aware of the fact that this is my one shot, so I owe it to myself to Shine Bright Like a Diamond and so do you!!

Because... This Is Not A Dress Rehearsal!

What can I say... I like me a movie with some drama and action! And that's exactly what G 20 was... an "Action Packed Drama." Per usual, Viola Davis gave another award-winning performance. The versatility of this woman never ceases to amaze me. Viola can act. As Female President of the United States, Danielle Sutton, Viola Davis is dealing with being an African American Female President that has the responsibility of securing a plan to assist the world, with a new primary form of currency... cryptocurrency.

But everyone is not on board with this plan, and before long the President and numerous world leaders from the G 20 find themselves being held hostage by those who wish to keep things just as they are... and make a few dollars on the side. From that point on the movie moved pretty quickly. And in pure Viola Davis fashion... she showed her audience why she's still on top. During the G 20 summit, President Danielle Sutton uses her administrative and military know how to defend her family, fellow leaders and the world. It's good y'all.

But what was a nice surprise was the performance by actress Marcai Martin. Marcai held her own. This young lady deserves an award for Best Supporting Actress. Like her leading lady, Marcai showed her versatility in this role. Marcai, was Serena. This young lady showed that she's definitely continuing to hone her craft. She's definitely grown since being the smart, sassy fraternal twin sister Diane Johnson on TV sitcom "Blackish." I'm looking forward to seeing her journey.

All in all, I would definitely recommend this movie. The storyline is interesting. The actors are good. And it's not too long... Check out G 20. Again, if you like a little action, mixed with quite a bit of drama, with a twist of Viola Davis thrown in... then check out the movie G 20. You'll like it.

What's That All About??

In the Oxford Dictionary, responsibility is defined as the state or fact of having a duty to deal with something or of having control over someone. But, if we were to look at this word responsibility at its core, we would find a much deeper meaning. It's more than just the act or duty to deal with something or having the control over that something or someone... it's the act of being accountable for one's actions and choices, fulfilling duties, and being reliable. It's about taking ownership of the impact of our decisions and having the ability to respond effectively to situations.

Responsibility involves being accountable for our deeds, whether they are positive or negative, good or bad. This means taking ownership of both successes and failures, learning from mistakes, and making amends when necessary. As human beings we all know that this can be one of the most difficult aspects of responsibility. Being mature enough to own our short comings is often a skill that does not come naturally to most.

Responsibility also involves meeting obligations and commitments we have made, whether they are personal, professional, or societal. This means we must be reliable and dependable in fulfilling our duties. And like responsibility, reliability means that you can be counted on. People can trust that you will do what you say, when you say it. Again, this is yet another trait that many people struggle with.

The root of the word "responsibility" is "response-ability," highlighting the core meaning of being able to react effectively to situations and challenges. This means being aware of our actions' consequences and taking the necessary steps to address them. Being responsible is about owning the choices you make in life, rather than avoiding responsibility or blaming others. It involves making conscious decisions, being aware of the impact of those decisions, and taking the necessary steps to rectify any negative blow-back that those choices may cause.

As stated by John C. Maxwell, the life we have is the only one we get here on earth, and it's not a dress rehearsal. Every minute we waste is gone forever. We can either choose to take responsibility for what we do with it, or we can make excuses...

I say... The Choice is Yours!!

"HOW SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE WIN"

"TURN EVERY SETBACK INTO A STEP FORWARD"

by JOHN C. MAXWELL.

I must say, I've been enjoying this book.

I'm currently still in the process of reading this book. I'm about halfway through this book. I've been tag teaming this book with my last book recommendation. I've been going back and forth but I've spent more time on this book in the last couple of weeks. I've come across some really great gems and I've been sharing them on my various platforms as of late. The knowledge that I've gained has been impactful. So much so that this month's newsletter is framed around topics that I truly enjoyed. Check it out. You will definitely be enlightened.
