

Fake Fact Fiction: Wendy Spragge

It's possible for anyone to FAKE the way their life appears. Being adept at disguise by applying makeup..fake eyelashes, false teeth, contact lenses, false teeth, fake tan, false boobs, padded bras, wigs of all colours and shapes. We can fake the appearance..fake the look. Anyway we want to look, we can.

We can fake a smile, a frown, a surprise. It's endless.

The fact is, that fact is very close to fiction. We can cross between the two. Slip from one to the other. If well balanced we understand the difference. Fact can become very murky if we slip between the two.

Fiction is often easier to negotiate than fact, less harsh. Fake, Fact, Fiction! Which one to choose?
