

FUNNY: WENDY MARGARET

After a few fun hours of hanging out at the Casino bar with my friend, flirting with a couple of well-dressed punters, one handed my friend a $20 note and said, 'go see what you can do with this note'.

We sauntered off with the $20 note clasped firmly between her thumb and forefinger and headed for the ladies' powder room on the way. We were giggly after a few champagnes had wet our lips.

My friend went into her cubicle and I into mine. Came out, washed hands, freshened up in the mirror, and headed into the foyer of the casino. I walked ahead of my friend and as we moved into the tables and between the machines, wondered why patrons were amused and checking us out. I turned around to ask my friend, 'Where is the $20?' She looked bewildered and checked her hand, pockets and bag. That's when I saw it! A whole roll of toilet paper trailing behind her, caught under the hem of her heavy leather skirt, unrolling as she walked. The $20 had been used to wipe and then flushed down the toilet. Somehow the toilet roll had hooked under her heavy ankle length skirt as she adjusted it. I couldn't believe it. It was so funny to see, although my friend was extremely embarrassed, I still laugh about it to this day.