

SNEAKY THE MOUSE: SARAH COWPER

Sneaky the mouse was a small, grey, round creature which would dart here, there, and everywhere, annoying its owner tremendously. When the owner wanted to play with it the mouse would either stay calm and let the owner play, but, more often than not, it would become cheeky and playful, becoming very elusive and shy. The mouse would often shake in the corners, and there was nothing the owner could do about it.

This went on for many months. The mouse darting and playing or being calm and behaving. One day the owner had had enough of the mouse's shenanigans and decided to do something about it. An emergency call to the IT person and an hour later the mouse was the best-behaved little mouse.
