

Mon, Jan 10, 10:19 PM (14 hours ago)

to me

Lots of new beginnings: Dan Coyle

We start afresh. Christmas has gone and a new year dawns.

We ended the year in turmoil with the loss of a member of the family. We moved into a period that we thought would be brighter but it didn't go that way because we lost Freddie, our faithful dog for 17 years.

This made us think about life and the future and new beginnings beckon.

Little Freddie will be with us on every journey, even if it's only in our thoughts.

We are going to enjoy days away, meals out, embrace family and enjoy our granddaughter. Another new beginning, the birth of her little brother. She always wanted to be a big sister.

We have worked for 51 years and never taken the time to think about ourselves except annual holidays.

My wife and I are going to grab the bull by the horns and make new memories with new beginnings. So, let's begin by raising a glass to those we have lost and to new beginnings.