COURSE DESCRIPTION

This Master Class is for the professional who wants to learn more strategies and techniques, have advanced treatment examples, and become more knowledgeable of the scope and sequence to implement executive function strategies. This seminar will get you thinking in new ways about how to utilize the 360 Thinking Program interventions, will help you to understand where to start, what goals to set for your client, and give you the opportunity to make and practice implementing a Toolbox of Strategies for teaching executive function skills. We will address at an advanced level how to teach students to channel their motivation and go from Intention to Action by creating and carrying out plans and to sustain forethought for task planning across hourly and extended time horizons. Learn systematic ways to develop a student's situational intelligence and self regulation to stop, observe and read a room, orient to the expectation in a moment in time, decide a course of action and then act within allotted time frames. Understand the relationship between speed of processing and executive function and learn practical strategies to improve written expression, abstract thinking/problem solving and figurative language skills.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

After completing this program, you will be able to . . .

- Define how situational awareness, self talk, forethought and episodic memory are the foundational skills for successful task execution
- State the 4 features of Situational Awareness and the OODA loop process for situational intelligence
- List 3 advanced applications of the Get Ready Do Done Model to teach a student how to visualize complex tasks and then sequence and plan the requisite steps to complete assigned work
- List 3 methods to develop iconic gesture for forethought and task planning
- Explain three processes for teaching students to calculate temporal windows, plan for and complete tasks that last an hour, a day or over extended time frames.
- Define the 3 factors that impact speed of information processing and list 3 interventions to increase the speed with which students can process, retrieve and organize information for written expression, figurative language and social conversation
- List 3 treatment strategies to address the executive function related aspects of initiation, retrieval of ideas and organization to improve written expression
- Describe 3 treatment interventions to develop a student's ability to generalize the Get Ready*Do*Done process to independent planning
