COURSE DESCRIPTION: This course will explore the importance of coordinated movements, self-regulation and object manipulation for brain-body integration using movement/balance, sandbags and balls. These are used in childhood games and even into adult life with professional baseball, tennis, football, etc. Games are won based on skill, precision, balance, and timing, along with behavioral factors such as focus, cooperation, planning, and responding (feedforward and feedback). The Peabody Developmental Motor Scale II Object Manipulation Sub-Test (an evaluation test used by many pediatric therapists) is dedicated to ball skills. Sensory processing principles related to vestibular, proprioceptive, auditory and visual processing will be integrated with popular programs - Bal-A-Vis-X® (balance, auditory, visual eXercises), Brain Gym® and Infinity® Concepts, yoga and reflex integration programs. Participants will leave this course with a bundle of activity ideas to use the next day at school, home or in treatment sessions with individuals or groups, from preschoolers to senior citizens.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES: AT THE END OF THIS SEMINAR THE PARTICIPANT WILL BE ABLE TO...

1. Describe how sand bags and balls can be used as therapeutic tools in groups or with individuals.
2. Demonstrate warm up activities for self regulation/organization, midline-bilateral coordination and social skills
3. Correlate ball skills to motor development
4. Practice skills for whole body movements with balance movements, sand bags and balls.
5. Provide an array of activities to structure into usable techniques the next day to address bilateral coordination, organizational skills, timing, and self-regulation.
