COURSE DESCRIPTION

We have adapted our 360 Thinking Executive Function Curriculum to the early childhood classroom to support the development of the early building blocks of the executive function skills. Acquiring these fundamental capacities in early learning environments is critical to developing the ability to focus, hold, and work with information in mind, filter distractions and flexibly shift to be ready to succeed in the school setting. This practical strategies presentation will introduce our (“STOP and PLAY”) program with a multitude of EF strategies to infuse into dramatic play, therapy and classroom activities to develop the executive skills of situational intelligence, mental imagination, working memory, visual future thinking, time awareness and task visualization, self-regulation and meta-cognition.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES: AT THE END OF THIS SEMINAR PARTICIPANTS WILL BE ABLE TO...

1. Summarize the relationship between situational awareness, episodic future thinking and executive function skills.
2. Describe five interventions to improve students’ situational awareness.
3. Describe five interventions to improve students’ future thinking and the related executive function skills of attention, inhibition, self-regulation, and flexible problem-solving
