On June 5th we open When Grandma Goes, a world premiere play written by resident playwright Rachel Kay Curtiss.

Funeral preparations are being made for the patriarch of the Meinhardt farm dynasty, and a tense family reunion is sure to blow in like a Kansas storm. Especially when the fate of the land is in the hands of Grandma, who is tougher than a bull, snappier than ginger, and hiding something behind every door in her kitchen. A modern farm farce that hits way too close to home, directly onto your funny bone, and into your heart.
