THE MERIDIAN BRIDGE, A LONG-TIME LANDMARK IN YANKTON, IS THE RESULT OF HARD WORK AND DETERMINATION OF LOCAL CITIZENS.

2:30 The bridge closed to vehicle transportation in October 2008, but opened in November 2011 to foot and bike traffic. Spanning over 3,029 feet, the Meridian Bridge is the longest double-decker pedestrian bridge connecting two states, Nebraska and South Dakota.

It was originally built in 1924 and was the first permanent bridge crossing the Missouri River. This unique bridge is a “double-decker” with one lane positioned above another and a lift-span to allow riverboat traffic to traverse the river. Up until 1953, it was operated as a toll bridge. In 2015 the Meridian Bridge Plaza was added to the north end of the bridge and is now home to a fountain, splash pad, benches, shading, green space, Yankton Riverwalk (sculpture trail)

6:00. On your own Glur's Tavern is a drinking establishment built in 1876 in the city of Columbus. . It is said to be the oldest continuously operated tavern west of the Mississippi.^[2] It was patronized by "Buffalo Bill" Cody during a visit to Columbus.^[3] Local legend says that Buffalo Bill paid his bill at Glur's Tavern in May 1883 with a $1,000 bill after a funeral in Columbus for Major Frank North.^[3] North was the former leader of the Pawnee Indian Scouts and a close friend of Buffalo Bill's who managed the Native American participants in Buffalo Bill's Wild West show. The showman's entourage came to Columbus for the funeral and rehearsals at the local fairgrounds.
