Mike and Sally Wrightstone receive the District Benardella Challenge Trophy

The 2010 Penn-Jersey District Convention at the Eden Resort in Lancaster was a great success! There were many highlights but one of the best was Mike and Sally Wrightstone winning the inaugural Frank Benardella Hi-Lo Challenge. This new District Challenge Class calls for a miniature and miniflora staged as a Hi-Lo.

Other highlights include:

Brenna Bosch presented a "Name that Rose" program at Friday night's dinner that was a lot of fun. We were shown a picture of a rose named for a famous person and had to guess the name based on clues Brenna gave us.

The Rose Show on Saturday had a good number of entries and the quality was very high. See the show results on the following pages.

Jeff Ware, American Rose Society Executive Director, was our after-dinner speaker and gave us an outline of the future of the ARS. Jeff is a very positive, upbeat person and his enthusiasm is contagious. Many were glad to be able to meet and talk with him

Director's Message

The roses are dormant and the ground too hard to work now so the “gardening addiction” is over for the year. This addiction is replaced by the “rose catalog addiction” – easier on the back but harder on the wallet! Sometime in late January I will start getting the urge to get back out in the garden but will have to suppress the urge well beyond January – mid March is about the time I can begin working soil and removing winter protection.

One event that helps “thaw” the winter for me is the District’s Winter Rose Get-A-Way, held the weekend of February 18-20, 2011 at the Eden Resort in Lancaster, PA. It is a fun weekend so please try to join us. Curtis Aumiller, Chairman of the event, has lined up a great set of programs. Please find the schedule of events, photography contest schedule and registration form further on in this issue of the RoseVine. One of the highlights of our get-togethers is the time spent in the hospitality room after dinner when we get to kick back and chat about anything and everything. I have learned quite a bit about growing roses at these sessions. Remember to make your reservations at the hotel by January 19. Hope to see you there!

Membership dues continue to lag behind the cost of operations at the American Rose Society (ARS). At the Board of Director’s meeting in Atlanta this past October, we voted to conduct a campaign to raise $100,000.00 in 2011 to help offset this deficit. Once the plans and materials have been finalized at headquarters, I will be sending you more information on this campaign and how you can participate.

The ARS Patron program continues to be well received and donations to this program help reduce the deficits. Most of you have received a mailing from the ARS on this program. Please take a few minutes to read the letter and look at the donation form. We hope that you will become a patron of the ARS.

Beyond the Rose Get-A-Way in February, we have many events to look forward to where we can share our joy of the rose with other rosarians.

Early March means the Philadelphia Flower Show – always a great time to enjoy a large convention hall filled with great landscape designs, lots of flowers and lots of vendors. The weather is generally cold and blustery then so it is great to walk in from a winter landscape to trees and plants all green and flowering. It is well worth a day spent taking it all in.

Most of the local societies are starting up their spring meetings by March and these meetings are always fun and informative. At the end of this issue is a list of the local societies and contacts so if you are not affiliated with a local society, please see if there is one listed in your area.

June brings us rose shows, both local and national. We will have a full listing of show dates in the next issue.

One treat this summer will be the All Miniature Rose Show and Convention held in Syracuse June 24 – 26, 2011. It is great to have one of these “all mini” events within easy driving distance. Our Fall District Convention is tentatively scheduled for September 16 – 18, 2011. Details will follow in later issues of the RoseVine.

That’s not too shabby a lineup for the year. Each of these events provides ample time to see old friends, meet new people and share our love of the rose. Take time to participate and you will have a good time!

See you then.

Kevin

Show schedule writers – please note that the correct wording is now “miniflora” - no capitals (MiniFlora) (unless at the beginning of a sentence) and no hyphens (Mini-Flora). This should be an easy change and help promote uniformity.

Plan Now for the ARS Penn-Jersey District Rose Get-a-Way Weekend Photo Contest

If you haven't already done so, prepare your color picture prints for the Penn-Jersey District Rose Get-a-Way Weekend Photo Contest so that you can enter them next January. The Contest Rules are slightly changed from last year. A class for single and semi-double blooms has been added. The Rules include a Novice Class, which is open to those who have never won a blue ribbon in a rose photo contest.

Each photo entry must be a 5x7 color print photo. Mail your entry with your name, the entry Class number and the name of rose or other photo identification attached to the back of the photo to: Bruce Monroe, 3030 Maple Shade Lane, Wilmington, DE 19810-3424. All entries must be received by Jan. 20, 2011. Exhibitors are limited to three entries per class.

All roses and activities must be correctly identified. Photos will be evaluated on 50% rose form and 50% photo quality. All photos entered will be on display and final judging and awards will be made at the Penn-Jersey District Winter Rose Get-a-Way Weekend. The judges' decision is final. Ribbons will be given in each class and awards to the top three photos overall. By entering the contest, you agree to allow the Penn-Jersey District of the American Rose Society to exhibit your photo at the 2011 Winter Rose Get-a-Way Weekend and publish your photo in the District Newsletter the Rose Vine.

The photo contest is open to any amateur photographer who is either a member of the Penn-Jersey District or who has registered for the 2011 Winter Rose Get-a-Way Weekend. You do not have to attend the Winter Rose Get-a-Way Weekend to enter the competition and you need not be present to win. The Novice class is open only to those exhibitors who have never won a blue ribbon in a rose photo contest. However, exhibitors who have never won a blue ribbon in a rose photo contest may also enter the other classes.

Please note the following definitions:

An exhibition bloom is a specimen that has one bloom per stem without side buds. Unwanted side growth, side buds and/or spent blooms may be removed from any specimen to improve the appearance. At its most perfect phase of possible beauty an exhibition bloom is generally one-half to two-thirds open, gracefully shaped with sufficient petals symmetrically arranged in a circular outline, and tending to a high center. An open bloom must have the stamens showing. A spray has two or more blooms per stem with or without unopened side buds. Roses classified as single or semi-double roses by the ARS are generally at their most perfect phase when fully open. A bud is not a bloom and cannot be considered for any award.

Class 1 – Novice Class – One photo, appropriate for any of Classes 2-12.

Class 2 – One Exhibition Bloom, Hybrid Tea, Grandiflora, or Floribunda

Class 3 – One Exhibition Bloom, Miniature or Miniflora

Class 4 – One Open Bloom, Hybrid Tea, Grandiflora, or Floribunda (other than roses classified as single or semi-double varieties by the ARS)

Class 5 – One Open Bloom, Miniature or Miniflora (other than roses classified as single or semi-double varieties by the ARS)

Class 6 – One Open Bloom of a rose classified by the ARS as a Single or Semi-Double

Class 7 – One Spray, Hybrid Tea, Grandiflora, Floribunda, Polyantha, Miniature or Miniflora

Two Wrights, A Triple Crown and Moore Joy

By Andrew Hearne

Being the insane rose exhibitor this year, I attended the Fall National Rose show in Atlanta, GA on Saturday October 9. I would give a title to this year's show as "Two Wright's, A Triple Crown and Moore Joy". Maybe "The Breeders Cup" or "One Hybrid Tea and Mini's Dominate Atlanta". "Clemons is the Man" or "A Yahoo from Penn-Jersey" are also appropriate. I think a bit of all is true but "Two Wrights, A Triple Crown and Moore Joy" is what I will call this article.

The weather was none too cooperative the week before nationals. 49 degrees and rainy Monday, 55 and rainy Tuesday, then 58 and cloudy (but the Phillies did pitch a no hitter!). Thursday was the first day the sun would show for the entire day, 70 degrees but the wind beat around the roses for most the afternoon before it calmed down in the morning. I cut 28 of the 33 roses I would bring to nationals Thursday evening. As always, I clean the leaves of every stem before they get put into cold storage. This cuts back on wasted time during prep time. I look over the show program and plan strategy and highlight possible classes I want to enter. This also saves additional time instead of fumbling through the program when you are looking for the section and class for the entry. I know this whole pre-planning and imagining strategy sounds odd but it does keep you efficient come show time and I can picture what I want to do with my roses ahead of time. So the day before leaving for Atlanta Nationals was no different for me.

I Packed the car and the roses and left by 7:45 Friday morning. It was a good thing because traffic and construction were terrible on the way down. We pulled into the Hilton around 8:30 pm-ish. Nearly 13 long hours and my body was happy to get out of the car. Since going to Nationals was kind of a last minute thing, the hotel was sold out so my mother and I stayed at a different hotel but wanted to see where the hotel was located ahead of time and where the prep rooms were. Funny, the first people I ran into were Don and Mary Myers. Pat Bilson was just around the corner and then Elaine Adler. While chatting, Bruce and Liz Monroe come walking down the hall. What are the odds the first five people you run into you know. After a few minutes of nice conversation I decide to seek the registration table. Lo and behold, David Clemons and I walked past one another and we both stopped dead in our tracks and greeted one another. I have always enjoyed chatting with David on Facebook about roses. It was really cool to meet him in person. After chatting and checking out the hotel it was off to the hotel and bed (which was 11 p.m. when all was said and done).

I will say 3 a.m. for some reason came all too soon. That being said, I was all too anxious to be tired. Packed the roses into to the car that needed more opening overnight and off to the Hilton. As stated ahead of time there was no reserving vases or tables prior to prep time. This was really awesome, as it gave everyone equal playing field from the get go. Of no surprise, there was a line of exhibitors waiting to get in (we got there by 3:45 a.m.). That being said, it wasn't as bad as I thought it was going to be. I imagined a stampede of rose exhibitors waiting to get in like a bunch of crazed Walmart shoppers on Black Friday. Actually things were smooth getting into the prep rooms and all exhibitors were respectful with one another in that regard.

It was kind of ironic that my prep room had Fred and Barbara Wright, Jack and Nancy Wright, Robert Myers and Jack Page and David and Tammy Clemons. David and I were in the back of the room (the miniature exhibitors) Fred and Jack were at the front of the room (the hybrid tea exhibitors) and Robert and Jack Page with all their sprays in the middle of the room. It was a total contrast in style and, obviously, roses. David and I were pretty much to ourselves and quiet, while Jack and Fred and the front of the room were the life of the party.

Funny, I thought 5 1/2 hours of prep time would be more than plenty...WRONG. I stayed busy for the full 5 1/2 hours with just a few minutes here and there to wonder and see the other prep rooms, admiring other's roses. I had some insane idea to go for the Ralph Moore Challenge trophy when I got finished pruning Thursday night. The Ralph Moore entry is a collection of 9 different varieties of miniature roses. I had 11 different varieties. I had very little wiggle room for errors.

The first thing I did was stage the roses in the vases. Each was staged so the top of the bloom was at the exact same height as all the others. I then started to play with arranging of colors. In my head I already knew the way I was going to stage the collection after I cut them all Thursday night (this is where the preplanning and imagining comes into play) - light to dark shaped in an inverted "U" The collection was staged on the table the entire morning. I just needed a few to open up a bit more. I asked Mary Myers for a bit of advice as she came around to snap pictures. I wasn't liking the Miss Flippins as the "focal point" rose in the back. She suggested I use the Chattooga as its color was less bold and would transition better than the Miss Flippins. Also I wasn't sure size-wise if Miss Flippins would match up and I was worried about it's sometimes unreliable centers "holding power". So I swapped the Miss Flippins for the Chattooga.

I will say it can be kind of intimidating when you have someone with awesome roses like David Clemons just an arm length away. I had the table next to Sandy Lundburg at the Miniature Nationals in Harrisburg. David just kept on pulling out these cups full of minifloras. And at the front of the room Fred Wright kept on bringing out an endless amount of hybrid teas. Jack was not to far behind in that regard.

At around 9:10 a.m. I decided to put my Ralph Moore entry into the show. It was the last Ralph Moore entry entered into the show. The entry itself was a bit "isolated" from the other Moore entries because the next open space had two tables of slight different heights in the allowed space. So I decided to leave that space open and place my entry as the next one down all by itself. I had to swap out the Bees Knees as the one I originally had in the collection I thought was a bit inferior and I was going to give myself the best opportunity I put in the Bees Knees that I has slated to make a run for Queen. However, I was not going to lose because of one bloom and wondering "what if".

I put my single entries into the show last. I usually put my good entries last into a local rose show. At this show perhaps this was not the best idea. The mad rush of people getting their entries in last minute crowded the placement table very quickly. I stood and made sure my "good" roses were handled with care. My Foolish Pleasure was knocked around and I had to re-wedge the stem straight. I kept a good eye on what I thought was my best rose - Joy.

Not much else to do other than clean up and go to breakfast: all is in the judges hands now. I did have the great pleasure of having breakfast with David and Tammy Clemons and their son and his lovely girlfriend. The Clemons are lovely people, very personable and make you feel like a long time friend right from the get-go.

I actually was not nervous or really think about the judging in the morning while waiting. I did go into Nationals with no expectations and just to have fun. If I win anything then that was icing on the cake. That being said, the last 30 minutes while waiting for the doors to open did feel like an eternity.

When someone opened the doors it was like a mini-rush of people on an Easter egg hunt. I think most darted for the head table. Not even five steps into the show room, Elaine Adler said “you must go look”, she essentially lead me to the head table. “Look down that row” (the side of the table with the three courts) Elaine said. I said “Wow!” I had a court of honor placement with the miniflora Show Stopper (hybridized by Penn-Jersey's own late, great Frank Benardella). I was happy! Another Wow! Sitting right next to it ironically was the miniature royalty and I saw Soroptimist International was miniature King of Show! Another one of Frank's great roses.

Elaine waited and said “Now go to the front.” I had a big grin on my face as I came around the corner and prominently displayed in its own shadow box (as all three Queens were) was the Joy I had entered awarded miniature queen of show! I was excited beyond words. Pat Bilson was snapping photos like she was a professional photographer - telling me to pose, etc. Elaine said “Now look down there” (the collection winners side of the head table). I walked down and I realized I won the national Ralph Moore Challenge trophy! “Unbelievable” is what I said with great excitement and a smile.

Once again Penn-Jersey's newest pro photographer Pat had me pose with my entry. I got many congratulations and hand shakes and hugs from the Penn-Jersey crowd. It was special to share the moment with Elaine, Pat, Bruce, Liz, Curtis and most of all my mother. It is a moment I will never forget! The national Ralph Moore and Miniature Queen! Amazing.

As I said earlier, David and Tammy are great people and they were more excited for me than even I was. David gave me nice happy handshake and Tammy gave me a great big winner's hug. Well, looking at the “head” of the head table it was no wonder why Mr. and Mrs. Clemons were so happy. David won the “triple crown”! They had won Queen of the show with a beautiful Louise Estes. How good was it? Well, it was so good it won the best exhibit of the entire show! A rarity for the Queen of the Show to also win best exhibit of the show. For those who don't know, David is the hybridizer of Joy which won the miniature Queen of Show.

And to complete the “triple crown” was Fred Wrights excellent winning entry the mini-flora queen Whirlaway. With the exception of Joy, David names all of his roses after great thoroughbred race horses so the fact he won the Queen of the show and hybridized the other two queens, he had his hand in all three Queens, the “triple crown” of sorts. I guess when you also consider he won the best exhibit of the entire show, you could call it more the “David-Slam” (after all, there was golf's Tiger-slam and tennis' Serena-slam, each winning the four majors but not in the same calendar year).

Any time something is new it grabs ones attention. David won the Rose Hybridizer's Association trophy and the seeding class with what will surely become his next great rose, a stunning red mini-flora with great form from a Merlot and Robin Alonso cross. David says it could be one of, if not his best, miniflora but admitted it would be tough to top Whirlaway.

On an ugly note David informed me that this entry was STOLEN from the head table somewhere between Saturday evening and Sunday morning. This is sad that someone would steal his rose that has yet to be released and will be entered in the 'AOE' trial. When you really think of it, this is someone who knows exactly what they are doing in the theft of this rose. I pray that no one pretends to say they are the rose's hybridizer and release this entry as their own.

On happier note David won a total of 12 trophies if I am not mistaken several which were his own creations such as the mini-flora King Foolish Pleasure. The three big hybrid tea collections were swept by the Wright brothers of North Carolina. Fred won the Earl of Warwick Urn (six AARS roses of different variety) and the National Pacific Trophy (a collection of three HTs from an exhibitor traveling from greater than 200 miles). Not to be outdone, his brother Jack won the J. Horace McFarland National trophy.

As good as the hybrid teas were, the show was dominated by David's Queen and the miniature and minifloras. Satish and Vijaya Prabhu won with a fabulous Ben Williams national collection of 10 mini-floras arranged on a "bowling pin" configuration (1-2-3-4 They also won the Robert and Mildred Lawton National trophy.

The Ben Williams collections were probably the most competitive of the three big miniflora national challenge classes. And that is saying something given how good all the miniature collections were. The miniflora court had ten roses that could have won Queen at most local shows. Ray Guillebeau had an outstanding Abby's Angel princess and Don and Mary Myers had a stunning Louisville Lady. David Clemons Lady Eomyn was really nice, I am convinced this is a southern rose. We do not see Lady Eomyn like that up here and he had at least a dozen at that.

It was nice to see neighboring Colonial District's exhibitors Steve and Linda Grass and John and Diana Fleek make the head table coming all the way from West Virginia. All the results can be found on www.roseshow.com. Congratulations to all the winners.

Finally, I will say this was a well run rose show. All the credit goes to a great committee, great volunteers and a fabulous show chairperson in Susan Clingenpeel. She ran a tight ship but it was smooth, she was always checking in with the exhibitors in the morning. There were no short supply of vases and show supplies which made it great for the exhibitors to not feel the need to "hog" show exhibit items. All in all it was a great and memorable weekend. Maybe I should retire from exhibiting after this.

Mythbusters

On a recent edition of Mythbusters on TV, the team was looking at whether talking to your plants helped them grow better. They tested 5 groups of peas growing in separate greenhouses. The groups were:

- Group 1: Control – no extra stimulus
- Group 2: Talking nicely to the plants every day
- Group 3: Talking nasty to the plants every day
- Group 4: Playing classical music to the plants every day
- Group 5: Playing heavy metal rock to the plants every day.

Results: Talking to the plants, either nice or nasty, had no effect. Playing music produced better plants – the plants listening to heavy metal did better than those listening to classical music. Get your Def Leppard records out!
