JANIE B. LANKFORD

Warrensburg, Missouri

Painting with acrylic, watercolors, mixed media

ABOUT THE ARTIST

Driven by a lifelong passion to create, I began painting after retiring as an educator. Lacking formal training, I turned to online tutorials, eventually finding a mentor through the detailed acrylic and watercolor lessons at artsherpa.com. My current style grew from the frustration of trying to perfectly duplicate reference photos. Instead of exact copies, my paintings always developed distinct features that altered reality. I found this blend of actual sight and inner vision fascinating. I soon embraced this shift, allowing my intuition to guide my brush. Today, my goal is to move past strict realism to create impressionistic pieces that capture the viewer's imagination and interest.

ADDITIONAL

My art journey has since grown from painting for fun to creating work that attracts public interest. While I still paint mainly for my own enjoyment, I also sell original pieces to interested buyers and accept commissioned work.
