

Yvette Martin

Yvette Martin is a multi-award-winning host, actress, writer, producer, director, technical engineer, and community animator with over 30 years of international experience across entertainment, culture, and community development. Renowned for her passion for youth empowerment and creative expression, Yvette has dedicated her career to creating platforms that help young people build confidence, skills, and purpose. As a seasoned youth program coordinator, she is deeply committed to fostering innovation, collaboration, and meaningful engagement through community-driven initiatives.

Yvette is celebrated for her meticulous attention to detail and her innovative approach to her art form. She seamlessly blends conventional and unconventional techniques into her presentations, creating immersive and engaging experiences. Through her Working Artist Caribbean platform, her work is highly interactive, inviting audiences to actively participate in the creative process. Her presentations, with a focus on Caribbean themes, are not only visually captivating but also intellectually stimulating, earning praise from both media and audiences alike.

Throughout her career, Yvette has worked with major arts, entertainment, and cultural organizations in Canada and around the world. Her diverse skill set allows her to excel both on stage and on camera, as well as behind the scenes, where she brings technical excellence and creative vision to every project. Beyond her artistic achievements, Yvette is deeply passionate about building healthy, resilient communities.

Over the past three decades, she has partnered and collaborated with numerous arts and community organizations to serve marginalized communities across the Greater Toronto Area. Through these efforts, she has empowered youth and parents alike, helping to bridge social and economic gaps and transform lives through education, creativity, and engagement.

Yvette Martin is committed to using her talents and expertise to provoke thought and inspire action. She has developed innovative platforms that have been adopted by multiple organizations focused on human rights, equity, and the elimination of systemic barriers faced by marginalized communities. Her latest venture focuses on raising awareness and advancing solutions to health, wealth, and financial challenges affecting communities globally. Through strategic partnerships with leading community organizations, Yvette continues to champion sustainable, healthy communities. Looking ahead, she is preparing for a dynamic 2026 Cultural Arts season, having been selected to lead several of Canada's recurring and newly established concerts and festivals.
