The Owl Club of Denver was founded in 1941 and organized as a men's social club at the prestigious University Club. In time, prominent local African American leaders and businessmen became members of the group. Beginning in 1951, the group selected its first 10 African American female high school seniors from Manual and East High Schools, based on scholastic performance and community service rather than socioeconomic status. The Owl Club has since recognized outstanding African American young women throughout the State of Colorado at the annual Owl Club Debutante Cotillion.
