Darlene, the founder of 3 Visions Farm, prepares the tent

Our Handmade Bell Tent!

Building one of these is no easy task with all the canvas that it requires but the process saves the farm money while offering a personal hand in the experience. Take a look at these photos to see just how big we're talking! This tent Darlene is constructing now is the first of four that will be used to house tourists in the future, some of which will be decorated by artists. It will be a unique touch to 3 Visions Farms that hopes to capture the spirit of it for the duration. Leftover scraps will be used to create other useful goods such as bags and more. This will be announced at a later date but we'll be sure to update you when they become available!

Our Affiliates

3 Visions Farm is by no means doing this alone nor are we the first to follow this model. For example: The Community Farm Land Trust, stationed in Olympia Washington, is an organization set on restoring and preserving local farmland in a fast growing location. Their values focus not only upon caring for BIPOC by allowing them to purchase arable land but that they collaborate with the indigenous tribes within that area. This trust also lays out the ground rules on respecting LGBT individuals, having written a "Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Policy" that was put into place of May, 2019. As CFLT puts it; "We create an environment in which everyone feels valued and respected."

We aim to reach further into Washington as our base but influence far and wide across the states. Our affiliates serve to strengthen our movement; from the National Black Farmers Association, built to protect the rights and insurance of black farmers, to the Veterans to Farmers who train those who served to farm and foster a community. In tandem, they're offered an opportunity to heal and gain access to food where support is still scarce despite their sacrifice. There's healing that can be done in this kind of work, a quiet resistance to the insecurities we face today. If you'd like more information on these programs listed above, they'll be found at the end of this page.

Stay tuned for more information and thanks for all that you do.
