Notes for Loebel Rabinowitz:

All of Loebel Rabinowitz's siblings had the surname Haimowitz. Reportedly he changed his name to avoid being drafted into the Polish military. Families with only one child did not have that child drafted, which was the case with the Haimowitz family. Loebel would be called a "draft dodger" in today's terminology.

Many family members had blue eyes and blonde hair. There were 8 girls and one son in this family. One of the children stayed in Europe-Russia.

On November 8, 1997, Earl Harter and Bertha Avis told Larry Konick the following about how the family came over to the US, "They had an uncle here that brought my (Earl's) grandparents and Aunt Ida over, then Aunt Ida brought the others over. The other came over when they had the money to come over. Aunt Ida was the first to come over (to the US) and the oldest (another story said Rivka was the oldest). Most came over separately in the early 1900's.

According to Loretta Diness Kraft in an e-mail from 10-29-2001, "Ida (Rabinowitz) Shaffer and her husband brought Laeble Rabinovitz to the USA. He was to collect rent from the tenants in Ida and her husband building at 1813 S. Spaulding where they all lived. Laeble and his wife, Molly, came to this country reluctantly. I think aunt Martha (Rabinowitz) and maybe Uncle Meyer came with them. My mother (Bertha Rabinowitz) and aunt Lena (Rabinowitz) came to this country together and entered the USA at Baltimore. Ida was grandpa's (Loebel) favorite child in addition to Uncle Meyer. My father (Hyman Diness) used to say Bertha had five sisters and each one has a brother. People would think that there were 10 kids in the family but that was dad's way of expressing Uncle Meyer's importance in the family. There must have been a sister left in Bialystok because during the Depression all of a sudden A Blumah appeared with a husband called Abe. I never could figure that out but there was something strange about that. All of them were naturalized and became citizens.

According to 1930 census, he was widowed and living with Kapinski's, b. 1850 married in 1870

Notes for Max Kopinski:

According to a phone conversation with Earl, 11-20-2001, Max's parents were Polish Jews. His parents moved to the Maxwell Street area of Chicago in the 1900's (at that time largely populated by Jews). Max, his brother (Louis) and sister were all born in the US. Louis was married, but had no children. His sister married a politician with a last name of Blaski. The Blaski's had children and they later moved to California. After Earl and Ethel's father left their mother, they lived with their mother, Jennie, in Gary. After she died, Earl and Bertha live with Hyman Diness and finished high school. After high school Earl lived with Max and Celia in Chicago. Earl said they were "good-hearted".

According to Jean Diness Konick, 11-5-2001, "They lived on the first floor of an apartment building, and Dina and Ruth's family lived on the 2nd floor. "

Harry Horwitz and Jennie Rabinowitz had the following children:

- i. EARL⁵ HARTER was born on 01 Dec 1913. He died on 13 Feb 2009 in Chicago.

Notes for Earl Harter:

Earl was born in Chicago. Father left and mother died young. After father left, Earl's mother moved to Gary with Earl and Ethel. After her death in Gary in 1931, Earl and Ethel went to live with Hyman and Bertha Diness in Gary IN and he graduated Emerson High school in the next few years. After that he moved to Chicago and lived with Celia and Max Kopinsky. He worked for the AI and later Shel Scott in the stainless steel business. His birth name was Saul Horwitz, which he later changed to Earl Harter. Never married. Was in US Army in WW 2 in the Phillipines. He spent time in Eugene OR and later in Seattle WA.

Earl went back to Bialystok to visit (1960s or 1970s). It reminded him of Milwaukee. There were many knitting mills. He went back to an old neighborhood. He walked into one of the old houses. An older woman remembered some of the Jews. He was to go to Israel with Norman (Rabinowitz), but the war in Israel broke out. Instead Earl decided to go to Russia and Poland.

Hi Cousins,

Just wanted to update you on Earl's condition. Things are not looking good. We placed Earl in hospice earlier in the week. He is still at Whitehall Nursing Home in Deerfield, IL. He is sleeping and not engaging in any type of activities. It is a very sad time but Earl lived a long life as he wanted and on his own terms. To live to 95, to work and drive until 93, to be lucid and clear until the end is probably everyone's wish. We have to cherish the good memories. During one of the last conversations that Earl and I had over the last few weeks, Earl said that you have to enjoy life while you can. I will keep you informed.

Love,

Cyndee

Hi Cousins,

Today we received a copy of our Rabbi's eulogy that he delivered at Earl's graveside service. It was a beautiful eulogy (if eulogies can be considered beautiful?) and really summed up Earl's life. We were glad that the Rabbi took time to meet with all of us on the Sunday before the funeral so that we could share stories and help him learn about Earl.

Hope everyone is doing well.

Earl Harter -- Hespel

February 16, 2009

"Eize hu ashir?" asked our Sages. "Who is rich?" Their answer: Not one who is wealthy. Or famous. Nor one who wields power. Rather, "Ha'saveah b'helko. One who is satisfied with his lot." We understand this to mean, one who knows himself and is comfortable with that self - with all of one's strengths, weaknesses, peculiarities. In that sense, Earl Harter was ashir, rich. He didn't have a ton of money. He didn't wield a ton of power. But he knew who he was, and he was comfortable with that. So were we.

Earl Harter had his own ways of doing things, and he was set in those ways. He lived by his routines. After 95 years - and an entire adult life living on his own - this is not surprising. He knew what he liked. His pencils had to be a certain length. Stubs. He arrived at work the same time, read the paper for an hour, and then made himself busy with work. He liked his walks, his fitness routine. He valued his patterns.

Earl Harter was, shall we say, concerned with money. He didn't spend much at all on himself. He didn't buy stuff unnecessarily. He used and re-used envelopes - old envelopes - and even paper towels. He was always concerned that others - particularly members of his warm extended family - enjoyed financial stability. "Doing any good?" he would ask. His way of saying, "Making money?" Earl wisely would put away money - and urged others to do the same - for a rainy day. He likely saw this financial crisis as a sorry mess from a lack of planning. When it came to money, Earl was more careful.

Earl Harter was loyal. Loyal to his work - Scott Stainless Steel - the family business he worked for as a seller for decades. It wasn't his business; he wasn't an owner. But he cared for it because - well, he cared for the company and he cared for those three generations of cousins, those who started it and still to run it. They were his people. And Earl was dedicated to them.

Earl was fun and warm. He was quick with a funny line, even a line oft repeated. When you walked into a room, he was always happy to see you, for goodness sakes! Beloved at the office for his perky personality, and good-nature. And beloved at the family gatherings - many, each year - where he would join - rather, instigate -- Ariel and Jordan in entertaining everyone with the Glubby Glubby Glubby song, and he'd try to convince them that he was a personal friend of Puff the Magic Dragon. He was the kind of man who would walk into a room and everyone would know him.

Earl Harter: Perky and a little quirky. Fun and uncomplaining. Careful with money. Fixed on his routine. Loyal to his family. An all around good guy.

These basic traits show us the personality. But they are just the surface. For these heartwarming and quirky traits also reveal deep currents in Earl's life. Many of them were forged in him through some hard experiences.

Earl was born here in Chicago about 95 years ago to Jenny and Harry Horowitz. Long and lean, Earl became interested in fitness, and was a pretty good runner.

Yet, tragedy struck for Earl as a young teen, when Jenny died. Harry married again, and the relationship for Earl and his sister Ethel with their father and step-mother was not all positive. Harry seemed less interested in his children.

This must have been particularly difficult for Earl and Ethel. They lost their mother, and then, in a sense, their father. By his late teens, and throughout young adulthood, it was not his father that embodied home; it was the home of Aunt Celia.

Around the same time, the Depression began. This also hit Earl hard. Money was very tight, and this formed Earl. He keenly felt the instability, the insecurity that comes with financial travails.

It was these dual events -- the loss of parents and the lack of financial security - that really formed Earl.

He reacted to that instability, it seems, with an inner drive - perhaps unconscious - for stability.

And so, it is no surprise that he valued his extended family enormously. Those weekly Sunday get-togethers at 1813 Spalding on Chicago's West Side - every Sunday for 10 or 15 years - how Earl must have looked forward to them! For there he found his people, his family, and the stability that family is supposed to provide. Shel and Merit remember those days - the family spread out over two apartments, Earl with the older cousins upstairs. It was there - and of course, at other important occasions - that Earl, who had lost so much immediate family - absorbed the importance of family and loyalty.

Earl served a couple of years in the Philippines during World War II. This must have presented some challenges, but it was the Depression that struck Earl more deeply. He was, in a sense, a casualty of it.

Yet, a casualty of the Depression and other hardships might be one who yields to bitterness, narrowness, resentments and complaining. Not Earl. Earl was a product of hard times, but he reacted to them with optimism.

And so of course we would find Earl showing up to all the family occasions - usually with Bertha - year after year, decade after decade, grateful to be part of such a warm family. No wonder he was singing Glubby, Glubby, Glubby.

And of course we find Earl going to work, day after day, year after year, into his nineties. He experienced disloyalty at an early age, and so he was loyal to the core.

And of course we find Earl inquiring into people's financial situation because he knew struggle and learned the value of a buck. The awareness that things could sour was part of Earl, and he wanted to be prepared for it, and he wanted everyone else to be as well.

Earl liked people, and people liked him. He was who he was, and it was in many ways endearing. He connected with people warmly - often through humor, and perhaps, in his later years, through a quiet blessing for someone else's well-being.

Our Sages taught, "Let there be rejoicing at the time of rejoicing. And mourning at the time of mourning." Earl was 95, or thereabouts. And this is no tragedy, his passing. And yet we feel the loss and allow ourselves to mourn for him. At the same time, we remember Earl and allow ourselves to rejoice. Earl was as well-meaning, and he was quirky. He faced hard times early on, and emerged from them as very much his own man - doing things his own way. We remember him and smile.

- ii. ETHEL HORWITZ. She died on 15 Aug 2005 in San Francisco. She married Benjamin Tarrant in 1953. He was born in Mar 1911. He died in 2016 in San Francisco.

Notes for Ethel Horwitz:

Alzheimer's disease

Father left and mother died young. Earl and Ethel went to live with Hyman and Bertha Diness in Gary in 1930 or 1931, and graduated Emerson High school in the next few years.

Hi Larry...nice to hear from you.

Ethel was very dear to me and my children. Merritt and Karen adored Earl and Ethel. They lived on the first floor of the building we lived in, and we the second floor. It was depression times and our greatest joy was for Ethel and

Earl to come upstairs, we had so much to talk about, all of us had very little, and oh how we loved every moment together.

I feel I lost Ethel several years ago, and now my sister Ruth too.

Send Earl an expression of sympathy. He goes to bed every night at 8 PM.

Yes, he would find it difficult to write a letter.

He used to call me very often, and now, the only time we talk is when I make the call.

He regards you highly, and always commented to me how much he appreciated hearing from you. He thought it wonderful your desire to be with family. I do too.

Love to all of you...Cousin Dina

Notes for Rivka Rabinowitz:

Died during holocaust in Europe (WW2). Lived in Bialystok, Poland. According to a letter from Bertha Avis to Larry Konick dated October 9, 1997, "Rivka was your grandmothers sister and the only one who never made it to the U.S. Both Jack and I scanned lists of names in the Swiss list of depositors, but I doubt our people were rich enough or sophisticated enough to stash money in Switzerland. Oh, yes, their city was Bialystok, in Poland. I understand all the Jews of that city (with a heavy Jewish population) were wiped out. One survivor of my mother's family went to Israel."

Notes for Labbe Slominsky:

According to Bertha Avis, Rivka was the oldest, and the only child in her family that did not come over to the states. She and her husband had a glassware business. Them and their families lived in Bialystok and the towns surrounding Bialystok. This area had a large Jewish population that was demolished by the pogroms and WW2.

16. IDA⁴ RABINOWITZ (Loebel³, Yosel-Chaim² Haimovitz, Meyer¹ Haimowitz) was born in 1883 in Poland. She died in 1951. She married MAX SCHAFFER. He was born in 1881. He died in 1922.

Notes for Ida Rabinowitz:

Alzheimer's disease. According to Marlene, "Ida was much younger when she became forgetful they called it hardening of the arteries to the brain & gave her electric shock treatments. Dinah can tell you more, she died in the early 1950's, I don't think she was 70."

Much of family buried in the Waldheim Cemetery and Rosemont Cemetery in Chicago area. Ida and her sisters and brother came over to the US from the Bialystok area at different times. Earl Harter said they came through Ellis Island to Chicago and lived there. She was an attractive woman according to Bertha Avis. Immigrant to US about 1906.

On November 8, 1997, Bertha Avis was told by her mother, Celia Rabinowitz, about Ida Rabinowitz. This took place at their home around Bialystok. The following story was told by Bertha Avis to Larry Konick:

"She was very good looking, tall, slim lady. Very pretty. In their village, they all lived in small villages surrounding a big city like Bialystok. In their village there was a program that killed Jews. Most of the people stayed in their homes. They were afraid to go out on the street. Even when the program was over they were still afraid to go out. But then they wanted to know if it was safe to go out. Someone determined, maybe great-grandfather, to send Aunt Ida out on the street because she did not look Jewish and to see if it was safe to go out. She was pretty and did not look Jewish. She was to scout out the area and see if the program had simmered down and if it was safe to go out. My mother (Celia) lived in a different village. After the program was over they loaded down the horse and wagon with food and supplies and went to Aunt Ida's village and brought supplies. Because of that Aunt Ida and her family always felt close to Celia and her family. Aunt Ida was instrumental in bringing Celia to the US. That was the end of the line because the War broke out and no one else made it over."

According to Bertha, Aunt Ida corresponded to the family in Eastern Europe.

Met Howard Freer for first time in 1995 at party at Cyndee and Doug's house. Apparently he did not attend many Rabinowitz family functions. Friendly, and new my family from Chicago family gathers. His wife was not well, but he lived close to where the nursing home was. He knew of the junk yard business run by Hyman Diness. We talked for a long time about his job with arcade sales since I had an interest in jukeboxes. He lived in Portland Oregon on Barbur Blvd at one time.

At party at Cyndee and Doug's 1-21-96, Jack and Mollie's 50th anniv, Roberta Schaffer Silverman said that he was diagnosed in the last couple months with lymphoma, and was not doing well. Could not take care of himself.

Dear Ms. Arkin,

If you are the Lori M. Arkin who prepared an online family tree, I and my relatives may have more information for you. I am the son of Aaron Libin (1902-1964), whose stepmother was Anna Libin (nee Rabinowitz; Seaman by a previous marriage). Anna's sister Martha Folk was my eye doctor when I was a child in Chicago.

Please feel free to contact me at lelibin@optonline.net or at the address above or by phoning 201-327-8426 so I can share this information. I apologize for my intrusion if you are not the Lori Arkin I seek.

With kind regards,
Laurence Libin

I responded and asked for the information and he sent me this:

Loebel and Meile Rabinowitz reportedly had nine children: not in order, Anna, Meyer, Bertha, Martha, Rivka, Celia, Lena, Jennie, and Ida. Of these, their daughter Martha (known professionally as Dr. Martha Rubin Folk, having I believe shortened Rabinowitz to Rubin) became a noted ophthalmologist; she married Dr. Max Folk and had a son, Dr. Eugene (see obituary below), whom my sister, Roberta Rappaport, remembers. When I was a child in Chicago, Martha was my eye doctor. Anna, another daughter of Loebel and Meile, first married someone named Seaman and had a daughter, Ruth. My sister attended Ruthie's wedding. Widowed, Anna secondly married the widower Joseph Libin and became step-mother to Joseph's children (by Tamara Billikopf) Vera, Aaron (my father), Mitchell, and Jeanette. I can fill in the Libin line if you like, but it's distant from yours. I hope this is helpful.

Best wishes,
Laurence Libin

Notes for Louis Seaman:

Other source says name is "Seman". "Seaman" per Ruth Schaffer Israel.

Louis Seaman and Anna Rabinowitz had the following child:

- i. RUTH⁵ SEAMAN was born on 18 Jan 1917 in Illinois. She died on 01 Jul 1968 in Los Angeles County, CA. She married MEYER CHATOW. He was born on 18 Dec 1911 in New York. He died on 18 Jan 2003 in Ventura, California, USA.

18. MEYER⁴ RABINOVITZ (Loebel³ Rabinowitz, Yosel-Chaim² Haimovitz, Meyer¹ Haimowitz) was born in 1889. He died in 1952 in Chicago. He married Anna Voleshim on 16 Mar 1918. She was born in 1896 in Indiana.

Meyer Rabinovitz and Anna Voleshim had the following children:

- i. NORMAN⁵ RABINOVITZ was born in 1919. He died in Nov 1989. He married LAVERNE. She was born in Jul 1941.

Notes for Norman Rabinovitz:

According to Earl Harter on November 8, 1997 (as told to Larry Konick), "Norman kept many photographs of the family. He could tell you a lot about the family." Graduated Emerson High School in Gary, IN. WW2 in the Middle East.

Notes for Laverne:

As of 1-21-96 she is living in Schererville, IN next to sister (husband died in 1995). Very friendly, and present at many of the Chicago family gatherings.

48. ii. MARTIN RABINOVITZ was born in 1925. He died on 14 Dec 2003 in Roswell, GA. He married LORRAINE. She died in Jul 2000.

19. BERTHA⁴ RABINOWITZ (Loebel³, Yosel-Chaim² Haimovitz, Meyer¹ Haimowitz) was born on 21 May 1894 in Bialystok, Poland. She died on 30 Apr 1970. She married Hyman Diness, son of Avrum Dines and Basha Layah, in 1917 in Crown Point, IN. He was born on 13 Sep 1883 in Bialystok, Poland. He died on 15 Jun 1969.

Notes for Bertha Rabinowitz:

Alzheimer's disease

Uncertain if birthyear is 1894 or 1893.

Naturalized at 35 y.o. in 5-13-29

November 8, 1997- Bertha Avis showed me three pictures of Bertha Rabinowitz. One was with a boyfriend, not Hyman Diness, before she was married, and the other two were with Albert Diness, her son. Bertha told the following story:

"Bertha was a very pretty woman, and you see that she was. But there were I think five daughters living at home. Most of them were all unmarried and it was very important to see that they were all married. Celia married and moved with her father (David Avis) and moved to Milwaukee. Your grandmother (Bertha Rabinowitz) came to visit because David Avis had a friend who was eligible. They met and it "clicked" and they were fond of each other. (See picture) At the time this happened the War came along, WW1. He went into the service. He was gone for a while. The family felt Bertha cannot sit around and wait. So they found your grandfather, (Hyman Diness) and they were matched up. The man did come back from WW1 and he asked David Avis and she was already married. This man went to California and married someone out there. David Davis died and he lost contact with this man."

According to Loretta Diness Kraft, "My mother (Bertha Rabinowitz) and aunt Lena (Rabinowitz) came to this country together and entered the USA at Baltimore."

Naturalization certificate- residing at at 1000 Adams street, Gary, Indiana, previously citizen of Poland

According to Loretta Diness Kraft in a letter to Jean Diness Konick February 6, 1996, "Women's rights began way back in our Mom's youth. Way back she talked about getting her citizenship papers in her own name." "Mom talked about Hull House, Jane Addams, Paul Muri (?sp), and some woman named Margaret Sanger. I really didn't know about the importance of Jane Addams or Margaret Sanger, or who they were until I went to the U of C. Paul Muni (?sp) I knew was a movie star who started out in Hull House's little theater and Muni Weisenfeld. I love the picture of mom and Aunt

Lena (Rabinowitz, later Scott) as Suffragettes."

"I came across this picture- it's of mom and aunt Lena in their Suffragette outfits. They marched from Hull House where Jane Adams urged them on for women's right to vote. I remember mom always made a point telling me she got her citizenship papers on her own, not on the basis of her husbands." "I mentioned recently to Shelly and he remember his mom's (?) too. You have daughters and granddaughters we thought you'd enjoy copies."

From Cyndee:

Maybe just a little diversion and some family history!!!! I know that I've emailed a few of you about the picture of Aunt Bertha and Aunt Lena in their suffragette dresses that Larry posted on Facebook in honor of women getting the right to vote in 1920. (I never reached out to Wanda, Mandy or Vicki) I've done some research with the help of a friend and it looks like there was a march in Chicago on June 7, 1916. Do you think they were at this march? Aunt Bertha would have been in her 20s but Aunt Lena was maybe 15? Anyway I think this would be so interesting for our family history and our reunion whenever it might be! Any information would be much appreciated. I do feel that most of us didn't ask our parents and grandparents what their lives were like. My dad was 11 during the pandemic of 1918--we never asked him anything about it.

From Maddy Diness Sheehan: Thanks Cyndee, I know this photo well. Aunt Loretta sent it to me, and I think it was she who also wrote that Bertha (my grandma) and Aunt Lena refused to apply for citizenship till women could vote.!

Notes for Hyman Diness:

In Jean Diness and Alvin Konick's wedding announcement in the newspaper he was referred to as Herman Diness.

Naturalized at 43y.o. 5-10-27

DOB 9/30/1883 per Loretta Diness Kraft. 10/30/1883 per other records.

DOB and DOD records from SSN 308-36-1606. Died in chair at home. Died 6-12-1969 according to Jean Diness Konick Described by Jack Schaffer as "hard-working" and "honest", in phone conversation 3/9/95.

According to Loretta Diness Kraft (in a letter to Larry Konick in about 1997) he, " was born September 30, 1883 in Bialystok, (Russia) now Poland. He always considered themselves Russian Jews because they lived there under Russian rule and they hated the Poles because of their anti-semitism although they weren't treated much better by the Russians. "

"By the time Hyman was a young man there was a lot of political ferment. Political change was brewing. The Czarist government was being threatened. The Diness's were politically curious and their son Hyman carried arms. Those caught were frequently sent to Siberia. He had 5 friends who were similarly involved. All their parents encouraged their boys to go to America (which was their euphemism for the USA). Hyman's three older brothers were already in America."

Hyman's friends were Louis and Max Gerber who established a plumbing firm that still exists and bears their name. Sam and Louis Kaplan who were in the clothing business, and Gus Goldberg who did well in the liquor business. They remained in touch thru the years.

One brother and the only sister remained in Bialystok. They were each in business and had families. In separate businesses. Hyman was ten years younger than his next sibling and didn't marry until his 30's so his children were much younger than Uncle Frank's, Uncle in Europe and the sister's kids. The sister Anna had at least one daughter; the brother in Europe had about 4 children. One of this sons came to America; his name was Irving Diness. I think Uncle Izzy paid his way and also paid for his education that led to his becoming an accountant. Irving married Edith. They had one son David who is your mom's age and who was sweet on her. He lives in a suburb of New York City and is a lawyer accountant. Very nice people.

Arthur Diness sent the following information (to Larry Konick) 1-21-96:

"The name Diness is derivative from the name "Dina" in the Bible. Our family came from Bialystok(sp?) in eastern Poland. It is near what is now Belarus (sp?). There's lots more to tell; just ask. The old home city in Poland was also very interesting politically. (Reds, Whites, Imperial Poles, democratic Poles, Catholic clergy, etc. against the Jewish populace, which may have been in the majority. Even though the host culture was fighting to establish and reinforce a democracy, they gerymandered the Jews out of an effective vote for parliament. This did not slow down political activities. Then, the Communists came and the Nazis came. No more than five Jews returned after WW II. The Jews who were herded up early on by the Nazis and were not killed in a few days, banded together and rose up against the German military. They were ruthlessly put down, but took some of the beasts with them. My gradfather on the other side didn't have a chance to fight back. He died by fire. The Nazis and their Polish supporters torched the synagogue that my grandfather was in, probably on the first day of the German occupation."

Steve Kraft wrote a story dated May 1968 titled "The Yard" about Hyman Diness' junkyard business.

THE YARD

The morning sun was pushing through the Gary haze. Men on the morning shift were beginning to enter the Gary plants of U.S. Steel. The Tribune newsboy was doing his rounds in the neighborhood of two story brick apartments. The once fine neighborhood like many of its inhabitants was growing old and tired. Not H. He slammed the heavy wooden door, walked across the small porch, and pushed open another door, which in late winter still carried a screen. Walking down the eighteen steps as he had done for the past fifty years, he began his trek to The Yard. He and his wife used to make the trip together. They had done everything together. Their business was truly a partnership. She was good at the buying and selling of scrap metals and the fact that she was friendlier than he, made her even better.

As he walked slowly but consistently down the block, the wind pushed at his hat, which had been given to him as a Father's Day present by his grandchildren. The relatively new hat looked out of place with his wide lapelled blue suit and red flowery tie. The clothes were so mismatched that they gave sort of a mod look. He was clean shaven. Only in recent years had he been using a safety razor. His thick framed glasses made his gray eyes look larger than they really were. He was on his way to The Yard.

The Yard was on a corner where a railroad highline and three rusty corrugated metal fences enclosed several lots. In one corner was a small cubic structure which H reached after opening a tall sliding gate and walking across the wood beamed truck scale. It once weighed incoming and outgoing shipments, but was rarely used anymore. The building of cement block was used as an office. In the center was a potbelly stove, and in one corner a black safe with a large gold dial and black handle. One of the two desks was covered with a pile of ledgers and the room was filled with an assortment of tube radios, fans, and car batteries. Behind the office was a three sided shed used for storing rags and paper.

A black cat crawled out from behind a stack of paper and rubbed her back against H's leg. Except for an occasional bowl of milk, she caught her own food. Open ground stretched from the left of the shed to the foot of the viaduct. A few years before it had been an ever charting mountain of metal, a temporary resting place for thousands of tons of metal, iron, tin, brass, copper, steel, and aluminum. Now the hard ground carried only some of last seasons weeds and a few pieces of rusting metal.

No, they couldn't take it away from him. To passing citizens it was nothing, but to him it was The Yard. Its importance rested on the fact that first as a young husband it had provided for his wife. Later, The Yard provided for three children, for numerous hungry relatives in The Depression, sent all three children to college, then married them off. If anyone suggested that he modify his handling of The Yard, modernize, or take it easier, it was a show of ingratitude.

The city was redeveloping the area around The Yard and by right of eminent domain was going to buy the land. They had offered him a price, but any price was too low for his precious Yard. Today after several days of arguing, his daughter was taking him to the Redevelopment Offices. She drove up just before noon. H sat uneasily in the car.

Suddenly he said, "We'll get a lawyer. I know a good lawyer. Let's go see him now."

"No, Pa, not now. We have an appointment at twelve right here."

"What good? I already know what they are going to say."

"You do not, and be sure to listen to what the man has to say. He is trying to help."

"Help? He's taking my property."

No more was said. The car was parked and they entered a storefront office building. Upon giving their name they were shown to Mr. Garvey's office. They were all seated. Mr. Garvey read, "Under title five of the Urban Redevelopment Act, property in the area shall be purchased for a price set by three appraisers, and persons and businesses shall be moved to suitable new locations if so desired."

"...new locations if so desired," H's ears perked up. He was slightly hard of hearing and asked to have it read again. The man politely obliged and then went on to say, "I think some adjustment can be made on the final appraisal. There is a great discrepancy among the three appraisers. . . "

H. wasn't listening. He remembered when he bought the land; it was just a sand dune. It had been on the outskirts of town and there were only a few buildings nearby. It hadn't been so long ago. His hands were calloused and his fingernails were filled with dirt.

"...you can come out with a nice sum of retirement money," the man was saying.

He thought for a moment and said, "How long did you say it would take to find me a new place?"

Dear Cousins,
I am sorry to write that Cousin Bertha passed away early this afternoon. It is very sad but she lived a long life and on her own terms. To live to 102, to be lucid and clear until almost 100 is probably everyone's wish. We were so happy that we were able to celebrate Bertha's 102nd birthday with her in March. We have to cherish the good memories.
Funeral arrangements are being made with Weinstein and Piser Funeral Home. We will have a graveside service at Zion Gardens at 3600 N. Narragansett in Chicago either Tuesday or Thursday next week. Then we will probably sit Shiva that evening night at our house.
I will forward additional information in the next day or so as we finalize the arrangements.
Take Care,
Cyndee

Notes for Jacob Victor Schaffer:

Father died when Jack was 15 years old. His family was well off, but after his father died Jack had to work and help raise his 6 year old twin sisters (Ruth and Dina). His family had little money and scraped by. WW 2 was in India/Burma. Met wife after returning from military service (Korean War). Although he was older than what the military would allow, he manage to get into the military and moved up in rank. Even after from the active military he was in the civilian military service. When he saw her he "knew she was the one he would marry". When he asked her to marry him, she replied "for two cents I will." He gave her two cents and they were married 21 days later. He had an 85th birthday party in Chicago at the Embassy Suites 11-27-92, and another get-together the next evening, Saturday, at Cyndee and Doug's house. Jack said the when he was young the Chicago family would get together on Sundays and remembers playing cards. He said that Hyman Diness would cheat when playing cards. He apparently liked playing games and was good at it. Three words that describe him are "stubborn, nice and generous".

Their 50th anniversary party was on January 21, 1996 at Cyndee and Doug's house. 1920 US Census shows Jack's age as 12 yrs. Must have been before his birthday. 50th Anniversary celebration at Cyndee and Doug Schwartz' house January 21, 1996 at noon.

At a visit with Earl Harter and Bertha Avis on May 31, 1999, Earl said that Jack was not getting around much because of his hip. He uses a walker.

Died October 20, with metastatic prostate carcinoma. In nursing home. Service at Temple Beth El in Northbrook on Monday October 23, 2000 at 1PM. Memorial contributions to Keshet.

Notes for Mollie Weinstein:

Mollie had a sister and brother. Neither married, and both lived in Detroit. Her sister died in May, 1999. Brother moved to Chicago, and they shared an apartment after Jack died. Everyone,

It is with a heavy heart that we write that Mollie Weinstein Schaffer passed away peacefully last night after a long illness. We are so saddend and she will be missed very much by all who knew her.

She married Theodore Linn in 1935 in Chicago IL. He was born on 20 May 1913. He died on 09 Dec 1992 in Portland OR.

Notes for Dina Schaffer:

Dina and Ruth were born and raised in Chicago. Their father owned many buildings, but died of appendicitis when Dina and Ruth were 6 years old. Ida had a hard time financially and eventually lost the buildings. There was no money for school. At one point Ruth and Dina were given $5 from Hyman Diness in Gary, IN to pay for a term at a junior college. They were forever grateful for that. They had 5 cents to pay for either a treat or bus/train fare, but there was not enough for both. At one time they used it for the train, but Ruth passed out so from then on they used it for something to eat.

Merritt said at Dina's funeral that they probably had an arranged marriage. Ted's family was very poor so living through the Great Depression was not a big deal for him. Dina and Ted moved to Oregon in 1947-1948. After WW2 a family member was in the construction business and there was a big need for lumber. A lumber mill in Independence was bought and Ted was asked to run it. It prospered and Ted bought the business. They lived in Monmouth and were the only Jews in the area. Later they moved to Salem where there was a larger Jewish community. Later Ted also spent time in the junk business and auto parts business.

Dina was very active in the Jewish community in Salem. When she met people she let them know that she was Jewish. She had lots of ideas on how to raise money for Temple Beth Shalom, sisterhood and Bnai Brith including rummage sales, bagel and blintz brunch, etc. She was also involved with the YMCA. She had strong opinions and was not afraid to express them. This was not always well accepted. She wrote many letters to politicians, celebrities, etc. telling them what she liked and disliked about them and their publicized opinions. She also had a sense of humor. She advocated that women needed a job and make money. At one time Dina had her own home business in which she sold Hoky sweepers. She liked to shop and frequently had things on layaway. Ted gave her limited funds to buy things. One time she bought a sofa that was only partially paid. The door and frame had to be removed to get it in the house. Because they could not get it out of the house without taking out the door, Ted was forced to pay it off. She also sold acrylic items at one time. She was a woman before her time.

Lived in Salem for many years before moving to Portland in 1986. She was office staff for Merritt's ophthalmology office and enjoyed calling patients to remind them of their appointments. In Portland she did not involve herself in the Jewish community like she did in Salem.

Last few years spent at Rose Schnitzer Manor (2009-2014)

No Alzheimers, but had physical ailments (kyphosis, back pain) which limited mobility later in life..

Notes for Theodore Linn:

Spent much of adult life in Salem, OR. Leader in Temple Beth Shalom. Moved to Portland after retired, did accounting work for Merritt.

102. ii. KAREN LINN was born in 1940. She married RICHARD HERBERT SOLOMON.

47. RUTH⁵ SCHAFFER (Ida⁴ Rabinowitz, Loebel³ Rabinowitz, Yosel-Chaim² Haimovitz, Meyer¹ Haimowitz) was born on 17 Sep 1916 in Chicago. She died on 05 Mar 2007 in Portland, OR. She married Nathaniel Israel in Temple Beth Israel, Portland OR. He was born on 31 Jul 1913 in Chicago. He died on 22 Mar 1993 in Portland OR.

Notes for Ruth Schaffer:

Ruth went to Northwestern University in Chicago with a background in business. She came to Oregon in 1948, a year after Dina and Ted Linn, and met Nat Israel. They married in 1950. She met Nat in Portland at a Purim ball. She took care of much of the accounting at the family business. She retired from the business in 1993

At funeral in Portland at Beth Israel cemetery, her three children spoke, as well as Merritt Linn and Doug Kahn. Ruth was known for her sense of humor, freely offering advice to everyone, being an excellent cook, and frequently having dinner parties at her home. She developed Alzheimer's disease and dwindled the last few years of her life. She spent her last days with her children at her side.

Notes for Nathaniel Israel:

Family owns a office equipment business in Portland, Oregon.

December 2016

Dear nieces and nephews:

Another year has come and gone, one that had its ups and downs. We have little control over the future so we do the best we can with what we have.

You are all grown up and no longer the little kids I remember when visiting your homes and at family gatherings. You are all unique individuals and I am very proud of you.

Although some of what we become is controlled by genetics, much is controlled by the environment. Your parents did something right to raise such wonderful kids.

Something that you share with each other is a set of grandparents. None of you knew your grandfather, Alvin Konick, which I shared in a previous letter. He would have loved spending time with you. Although all of you knew your grandmother, Jean Diness Konick, you may not have had the closest relationship with her. As mentioned above, the environment we are exposed to while young has a significant effect on what we become as adults. This is certainly the case for grandma Konick. She was born in 1930, at the beginning of the Great Depression. Jobs were scarce, food was sparse and this took a toll on everyone. Jean was the youngest of three children. The family survived on whatever money her father and mother could make from their junk business. They lived in a small home in Gary, Indiana (a city made famous by the musical, The Music Man). They would probably be considered a low income family according to today's standards. However, the family was generous and shared their home and income with other family members. This meant Jean spent a lot of time with family members while dad and mom ran the business. Jean was a very attractive young lady, a comment I heard many times from cousins in the Chicago area that grew up with her. School beyond high school and higher education were not a strong priority for her. She briefly attended Indiana University, then worked for a short time at the John Hancock Life Insurance company. As was the case of many women of her generation, marriage and children were probably a more likely course for Jean. Her cousin, Dina Linn, who had already married and moved to Oregon did some matchmaking and introduced Jean to Alvin. Dina must have done a darn good job because the 20 year old beauty and Alvin were married in 1950. The next chapter in their lives involved having 5 kids in 17 years. Wow, what were they thinking! Then after less than 19 years of marriage Alvin passed away leaving Jean with kids to raise (ages 2, 11, 14, 14, 17) and taking on the responsibility of running a business. I will leave it to you to imagine how this impacted her life. The fact that the five us turned out as normal as we are says something of her parenting skills. She did something right! Grandparenthood has different meaning to different people. I suspect each of you has different memories of grandma Konick.

Although Jean did not collect coins like your grandpa Konick (which I shared with you previously) she was generous with many Jewish and local organizations during her lifetime. I learned about tzedakah from my grandparents and parents. They also felt strongly about education and working hard, a trait shared by generations of immigrants to the USA. I know all of you have worked hard to get to your current state. Please accept the enclosed Chanukah gelt as an appreciation of what you have done and what you will become.

With much love,

Uncle Larry

Jean Konick

Born in Gary Indiana February 6, 1930 to Hyman Diness and Bertha Rabinowitz Diness, both immigrants from Bialystok, Poland.

She had 2 older siblings, Albert 10 years old and Loretta 8 years old.

Named after Jennie Rabinowitz who died shortly before her birth. Also named after grandmother, Meile. Parents originally wanted middle name of Molly, but rabbi did not like name, so E was put at beginning and N was put at end to make Emollyn. I don't think rabbis have that much say anymore in baby naming.

I believe that the person we become has a lot to do with those around us in our younger years.

1930 was at the beginning of what is now referred to as the Great Depression. This was a difficult time for many in my family.

My cousin Steve Kraft, who grew up in Gary Indiana wrote a story in 1968 titled The Yard which says something of what life was like for mom and explains how her early years effected the remainder of her life. Also it is an interesting real life story. "The Yard" refers to my grandfather's junkyard business. I proudly think of him as one of the early recyclers. With the steel mills nearby he was able to support his family and others.

The morning sun was pushing through the Gary haze. Men on the morning shift were beginning to enter the Gary plants of U.S. Steel. The Tribune newsboy was doing his rounds in the neighborhood of two story brick apartments. The once fine neighborhood like many of its inhabitants was growing old and tired. Not H. He slammed the heavy wooden door, walked across the small porch, and pushed open another door, which in late winter still carried a screen. Walking down the eighteen steps as he had done for the past fifty years, he began his trek to The Yard. He and his wife used to make the trip together. They had done everything together. Their business was truly a partnership. She was good at the buying and selling of scrap metals and the fact that she was friendlier than he, made her even better.

{they were at least equals in the business, and she was a strong independent woman}

As he walked slowly but consistently down the block, the wind pushed at his hat, which had been given to him as a Father's Day present by his grandchildren. The relatively new hat looked out of place with his wide lapelled blue suit and red flowery tie. The clothes were so mismatched that they gave sort of a mod look. He was clean shaven.

Only

in recent years had he been using a safety razor. His thick framed glasses made his gray

eyes look larger than they really were. He was on his way to The Yard.
The Yard was on a corner where a railroad highline and three rusty corrugated metal fences enclosed several lots. In one corner was a small cubic structure which H reached after opening a tall sliding gate and walking across the wood beamed truck scale. It once weighed incoming and outgoing shipments, but was rarely used anymore. The building of cement block was used as an office. In the center was a potbelly stove, and in one corner a black safe with a large gold dial and black handle. One of the two desks was covered with a pile of ledgers and the room was filled with an assortment of tube radios, fans, and car batteries. Behind the office was a three sided shed used for storing rags and paper.
A black cat crawled out from behind a stack of paper and rubbed her back against H's leg. Except for an occasional bowl of milk, she caught her own food. Open ground stretched from the left of the shed to the foot of the viaduct. A few years before it had been an ever charting mountain of metal, a temporary resting place for thousands of tons of metal, iron, tin, brass, copper, steel, and aluminum. Now the hard ground carried only some of last seasons weeds and a few pieces of rusting metal.
No, they couldn't take it away from him. To passing citizens it was nothing, but to him it was The Yard. Its importance rested on the fact that first as a young husband it had provided for his wife. Later, The Yard provided for three children, for numerous hungry relatives in The Depression, sent all three children to college, then married them off. If anyone suggested that he modify his handling of The Yard, modernize, or take it easier, it was a show of ingratitude.
{Hyman and Bertha were hard working, strong-willed and generous all traits that I would apply to my mom}

Bertha Diness was also a hard worker, and she was an early woman's rights activist. She talked about getting her citizenship papers in her own name and not on the basis of her husband. Like Bertha, mom also expressed her independence.
Graduated Horace Mann High School. Later went to Indiana University. Employed by John Hancock Life Insurance Company before being married.

Dina and Ted Linn, early members of TBS moved to Oregon in 1947-1948 and later moved to Salem. They knew William Konick and Sarah Westerman Konick in Corvallis who started a jewelry business in 1913. They had a son, Alvin Konick, who was of marrying age. Being a good matchmaker, Dina invited her first cousin, Jean, to Oregon at which time she met Alvin. They married shortly after that.

Married Alvin Konick in 1950 at Blackstone hotel in Chicago, IL (at corner of Michigan and Balbo Dr) by Rabbi Irving Miller of Gary Temple Beth-El. Edith Diness was matron of honor, and Albert Diness was best man.
She had 5 children, Cathy 1951, Debby and Larry in 1954, Bob 1957 and Sarah 1967. Alvin and William kept busy with the jewelry business which went through multiple stores and most recently ended up on 3rd street in Corvallis, across from Sunnybrooks/Burtens restaurant in 1962. With 5 children to raise and in charge of the household, she was busy but still found time to help at the store.
1969 came and Cathy graduated high school. Husband, Alvin Konick died June 5, 1969, her father Hyman Diness died June 15, 1969 and her mother Bertha died April 1970. It was a difficult year, but she persevered. She managed the jewelry store with the help of Roy Loney, her brother-in-law, and later Bob managed the store with mom until it was closed in 1984 after 71 years. Managing a jewelry store was difficult, but doing this with 3 teenagers deserved hazard pay!

Jean retired after the store closed and Sarah graduated high school, but she still kept busy. For many years before and after retirement she involved with the Junior Womens League, Corvallis downtown planning commission, Corvallis Senior Center, TBS in Salem, and later Bet Am in Corvallis. She was a lifetime member of Hadassah. She loved playing Mah Jongg, attending Beaver Basketball, The Oregon Coast, opera, musical productions and Fitness over 50.

When I moved back to Oregon in 2003 she started having issues which in retrospect probably had something to do with Alzheimer's disease; a disease that took her mother and many of her cousins. Although in the last few years she did not know us by name, so many times when I would visit her eyes would twinkle with what I interpreted as a sign of recognition and a smile would appear on her face.

Conversations were one sided, but occasionally a comment would come out of her mouth that made perfect sense which made me remember the person who she was. Like her father and mother, she was independent, generous and resourceful. She will be missed.

One thing mom loved was music. She listened to lots of different music. Even as Alzheimer's stole her memory music was a way she connected with the world. She actively participated in sing-a-longs in the memory wing of Robison. Sundays frequently had musicians entertain Robison residents. Mom would be rolled in her wheelchair to the common room. I would sit next to mom and times she would put her hand on the armrest on top of mine or I would put mine on hers. Anyone who ever spent time with her knew that she was frequently in "pucker" mode, as if she was whistling. I always wondered what was going on inside that was not getting out. I acquired mom's liking for music. I even like to whistle. On Rosh Hashanah morning I decided I needed some stretching and exercise before the hours of sitting in hard wooden pews, so I turned on my Juke Box (Seeburg from the 1950s), sat down on the floor in front of the big speaker and started my stretching. To my surprise without pressing any buttons it started playing songs I usually do not listen to, first was Magic by Pilot, Song Sung Blue by Neil Diamond and Handyman by James Taylor. Was my juke box possessed? Could mom possibly be pressing my buttons trying to tell me something? After thinking a while about the lyrics I decided, No. It was probably the young ones that used the bonus room for their entertainment a few weeks earlier. I will miss my times with her communicating through music.

In summary, Mom was a strong, independent, generous and resourceful woman, much like her parents. I think I have become my parents in many ways. I miss her and dad so much.

Notes for Alvin Konick:

According to e-mail from Marlene, "My grandmother Ida had Alzheimers as well as Aunt Martha Folk.

I have been in a genetic study through the University of Indiana for several years & sent a blood sample, I also have given them Kathy's name & address for family follow up

By the time my mother Ethel Jaffa was 70, we knew something was seriously wrong, her mother Ida was much younger when she became forgetful they called it hardening of the arteries to the brain & gave her electric shock treatments. Dinah can tell you more, she died in the early 1950's, I don't think she was 70. My mother's sister Dorothy also had it. Ruth seemed to have some dementia but it was not Alzheimers (my opinion)

I am happy to help if you need any more info

Marlene. "

Hi Cyndee and Doug.

I am sad to tell you that Merritt just passed away.

It went so fast over the last 7-10 days. On Thurs

I was at his home cleaning his ears of wax. In fact he called me that morning to ask me to come over in order to do it. My daughter Jessica and I went to see him this evening so she could say good-bye.

10 min after we left his light flickered out.

We will all miss the many wonderful things he did and said to/for people. Please let your siblings and the Chicago family know. I suspect the service will be on Weds or Thurs. Keith and Jodi are handling all of the affairs so I am sure they will keep us in the loop as new information arises.

Be well. All our best.

Notes for Daniel Hageman:

Attended Bar Mitzvah March 14, 1998 at Temple Israel in Gary Indiana. Family members present included Edith Thomas, Madelynne, Mike and Melissa Sheehan, Wanda, Dick Aaron and Aliza Haneline, Steve Kraft and Larry, Karen, Jennifer and Jordan Konick. Sheldon Thomas was there with his three sons, Chip, Todd and Bob. Bob was there with his recently married Phillipino wife. They were to get married again at the Temple on Sunday March 15, 1998. A big snow storm earlier in the week knocked out electricity to the area, but other than lots of snow on the side of the roads, and lots of downed tree limbs, the place was back to normal.

Notes for Madelynne Diness:

Moved to Oregon with Mario. Had two daughters and divorced Mario. Mario had several Great Danes (dogs). Had a Volkswagen van, lived at the Oregon coast. Remarried lawyer. Also known as Maddy. According to a letter date 6.21.96, Madeline publishes fishing books and is the author of Fishing In Oregon, directory to the states' sport fisheries. A new edition of "Fishing in Oregon" was out June 2, 2000. Another edition in June 2005. Pen name is Madelynne Diness Sheehan. Graduated Law school from Lewis and Clark College in May 2005. Does elder law. Mother corrects me: her Hebrew name sounds like "Eeta-leah", though she doesn't know what the spelling would be. I was named for great grandmothers "Molly" and Rachel. If the Rabbi has thoughts as to what Hebrew for Molly might be, (that would be Grandma Bertha's mother), he's welcome to use that name as my Hebrew name. Otherwise, let's go with Miriam-Rachel.

Thanks,
Maddy

Randy L. Rasmussen/The Oregonian For more than 20 years, Maddy Sheehan has authored and published "Fishing In Oregon" but then went to law school just before she turned 60.

SCAPPOOSE -- Most clients of the law offices of Sheehan & Sheehan LLC get the kitchen treatment.

"I clear the tablecloth, put on hot water for coffee or tea and make them as comfortable as possible," said Maddy Sheehan, the firm's newest partner. "It's so much easier to talk and get things accomplished in a home atmosphere."

Some of the more fortunate might make it into the living room of Mike and Maddy Sheehan's split-level home, with a view of Mount Hood rising above their neatly kept vineyard (80 bottles a year of pinot noir and enough Chardonnay for a really good grape juice). The walls are a gallery of fish and outdoor and scenic art, including original drawings of fishing scenes from past editions of her best-known book, "Fishing in Oregon."

But the highlight of Sheehan's tour of "my digs" is her upstairs office. Curtains across an open closet hide a law-book collection on the shelf and bubble-wrap packing below, used to ship fishing books to new holes.

Perhaps she'll show you her admission to U.S. District Court, signed by Judge James Redden himself.

An entire wall is devoted to a massive map of Oregon because, she said, "It's in my heart every day."

At 64, an age most of us are deeply wrapped in retirement planning, Madelynne Diness Sheehan is on a new career path, giving back to the passion that led to her first "Fishing in Oregon" guide in 1985 and a successful business, Flying Pencil Publications.

Two decades later, in 2005, she graduated from the Northwestern School of Law at Lewis & Clark College. That same year, she published her guide's fifth and latest edition, detailing more than 1,200 places to go fishing in the state. She has sold more than 150,000 copies since it was first published.

Sheehan still sells the book -- to bookstores, sporting goods stores, etc. -- from her inventory of 3,000, but she credits her and husband Mike's $60,000 investment in law school for a new sense of direction, a passion and an even stronger marriage.

"I always wanted to work with Mike," she said. "He's a lot of fun."

Even if he doesn't fish. In fact, he tipped the canoe on their first date, a paddle up Scappoose Bay. "His version is different, of course," she said.

Sheehan, who has two daughters from a previous marriage and two toddler granddaughters, said she also chose law school partly because of her natural curiosity. The impetus came as the world embraced computer technology and book sales waned.

"I wasn't sure I could make a future anymore in publishing," she said.

About the same time, a dozen or so years ago, Sheehan the fishing book publisher joined the board of directors of the Northwest Sportfishing Industry Association and helped convince her peers to get involved in the then-proposed removal of Savage Rapids Dam on the Rogue River.

She was rewarded with the assignment to sit in on the legal negotiations, but, "I didn't know what the heck they were talking about most of the time because I wasn't a lawyer."

Still, it was obvious, Sheehan said, there were significant economic and, especially, environmental benefits to wild fish from replacing the dam with a state-of-the-art irrigation pump system.

Intrigued by the legal debates, she opted for law school, taking every class she could find dealing with the Endangered Species Act and federal laws affecting fish of the Northwest. She and Mike engaged in lively discussions about her studies.

When the dam was removed last year, Sheehan and several other lawyers were aboard one of the first rafts through the re-exposed rapids.

"The joke in the raft was, 'No wonder they put us in front; who'd care if they lost a boatload of lawyers?'" she said with a chuckle.

Mike Sheehan's legal practice -- from his office on the opposite end of the house -- specializes in nuclear power and forensic economics.

After law school, though, it wasn't economics or environmental or fish law that drew

Maddy Sheehan's interest. She gravitated naturally to the needs of the elderly -- wills, trusts, probates, Medicaid, etc. "I identify with that very easily," she said. "There's a need to help simplify their lives."

She also volunteers as president of the board for Columbia County Legal Aid and is a past president of the Scappoose Bay Watershed Council.

And, of course, she remains deeply connected to fish issues as a pro-bono (unpaid) counsel, representing the Northwest Sportfishing Industry Association in Redden's court and siding with Oregon to fight a lawsuit by the Humane Society of the United States to halt the culling of sea lions at Bonneville Dam.

"I couldn't imagine working for the dark side against the environment or anything like that," said the soft-spoken Indiana native.

Sheehan arrived in Oregon in 1972 via Manhattan, N.Y., with a keen interest in the outdoors. She took up flyfishing and eventually bought the former "Henning's Guide to Fishing in Oregon," morphing it into "Fishing in Oregon."

Her premise, she said, was to do a better job of detailing the history and conditions of all of Oregon's best fishing locations. As biologists and others retired, she learned -- and published -- even more secrets about the book's hundreds of locations. Excerpts will go online this spring on a fledgling Web site, www.bestfishinginoregon.com <<http://www.bestfishinginoregon.com/>>. The site isn't operational yet but has a page posted, along with a notification link when it goes live.

Sheehan said she fishes much less as a lawyer but added, "I never refuse an invitation." She sets aside time each summer for a trip with a girlfriend to Hosmer Lake and its Atlantic salmon fly fishery.

She doesn't hunt (although she paddles a 14-foot Old Town "Hunter" canoe) but wants to go with her daughters-in-laws on an elk hunt and isn't opposed to hunting.

Sheehan said she's firmly behind angler and hunter involvement in processes that affect Oregon's fish and wildlife.

"I'm not sure how strong the support base would be if it's just people who think animals are pretty," she said.

Sheehan said she swam her way through childhood, so much so, in fact, "I often thought of myself as a mermaid."

Today, having arrived at a new and rewarding career "kind of through the back door," she said, "I'm still kind of a mermaid I guess. ... A mermaid in bliss."

- ii. MELISSA MEJIAS was born on 02 Dec 1978. She married Guy Copobianco on 09 Aug 2014 in Scappoose, Columbia, Oregon, USA.

Notes for Melissa Mejias:

Married at home of Maddy and Mike Sheehan in an outdoor wedding.

111. CLIFFORD⁶ KRAFT (Loretta⁵ Diness, Bertha⁴ Rabinowitz, Loebel³ Rabinowitz, Yosel-Chaim² Haimovitz, Meyer¹ Haimowitz) was born on 10 Oct 1953 in Gary IN. He married Sue Stein on 05 May 1983 in Brown County courthouse, Green Bay Wisconsin. She was born on 21 Nov 1957.

Notes for Clifford Kraft:

Born and raised in Gary Indiana. Bar Mitzvah 11-19-1970.

Works for Sea Grant as fisheries biologist. Undergraduate training at Cornell. PhD at Univ of Wisconsin, Madison. Lived and worked in northern California working in fisheries. Later moved to Green Bay, WI for several years working at Univ of Wisconsin- Green bay. Studied the zebra mussel in Lake Michigan. Lived north of the university with a small farm; sheep, goats, chickens, a large garden and lots of insects/spiders. Later moved to Freeville, NY (about 1999), near Ithaca for a teaching position at Cornell University. They live on a 17 acre farm.

Per Stephen Kraft, June 2023, "Professor, Natural Resources and the Environment, Cornell University Ithaca, NY

My research focuses on ecosystem interactions that influence the management of freshwater fish populations in lakes and rivers. These efforts involve large-scale and small-scale experimental manipulations, as well as taking advantage of natural experiments that help identify key ecosystem processes.

In recent years, I have been leading the Environment & Sustainability major at Cornell. As director of this cross-college major, I promote engagement by faculty in departments throughout the university who teach about environment and sustainability issues. The 400 students in our major defy disciplinary boundaries, come from diverse backgrounds, and are passionate.

Larry,

Let me first just say that I appreciate your efforts to keep in contact with us, though I know that I am generally silent in response.

I always intend to get back to you and provide some updates as to what my family is up to, but seldom do so. The short version of our current family status is that all three boys are currently still living in Ithaca, though I suspect this will end fairly soon. Ben graduated from Cornell in May 2007 with a degree in computer science, then continued for a 5th year Master's of engineering degree in the same subject, and now works here in Ithaca. Much of his incentive for finding a job in town was because his girlfriend is a pre-med undergrad in her third year at Cornell, and I expect that he'll leave the Ithaca area when she does. Max is a senior biochemistry major at Cornell, and Tom is a junior biology major. Tom's primary interests are animal behavior, and he is the one most likely inclined to pursue an academic path. Max is much less certain about what he wants to do, and he currently plans to bike across the country this summer as an end-point to his college career. Beyond that, I'll make no predictions, though will hope that the U.S. still has an economy capable of employing anyone besides those paid with public funds. As for Sue, she's been a high school biology teacher for the past five years in a small town near Ithaca.

I'll also note that I extend my best wishes to Jennifer and your family in dealing with lupus. Max -- our middle son -- has a friend (Leigh) who contracted lupus during her first year at Cornell, and we have had a chance to get to know her and spend time with her. She is very upbeat and energetic, yet I also recognize the challenges that she faces in dealing with this disease. Like many such challenges, I suspect that this in many ways brings out the best of her wonderful personality and talents. Yet I know there are times when she -- and everyone who knows her -- wishes that we could snap our fingers and her disease would disappear. I'll hope that both Jennifer and Leigh see that day when we can make lupus go away.

Okay, let me now note how amazing it is to learn that you work with Alicia. As she must have told you, she was a dear friend while we were students at Cornell. But I am not an easy person to keep in touch with, so I was out of contact with Alicia for something like 20 years before seeing her at the 2000 Cornell reunion, at which point I believe she was living in North Carolina or some place south of here. I might have heard from a mutual friend that she moved to Oregon, but this news obviously didn't sink firmly enough into my brain for me to even consider the possibility that she would have any contact with you. But it truly is remarkable to learn that she works with you, so please convey my warmest greetings to her. I hope that I have a chance to cross paths with her again, whether here or in Oregon.

And I extend the same warm greetings to you and your family. I often expect that I will find myself traveling to Oregon for professional reasons, but I haven't had such an opportunity since 2000. One of my former Ph.D students will soon be moving to Corvallis, so perhaps that will bring me to the OSU campus. I know that it will be quite different to visit and not have your mother living and healthy in Corvallis, but her generation of our family is dwindling in numbers and in mental health.

Again, thanks for keeping in touch. Enjoy your upcoming holiday.

Email from Cliff Kraft, June 2023
Larry,

Steve forwarded to me your current version of "Descendants of Meyer Haimowitz" in which he mentioned that you are working to update various details and missing information. I agree with Steve that I appreciate your effort to do this, so wanted to reach out and let you know that I'm interested in helping to whatever extent you find useful. As I responded to Steve via email last night, the details that are most interesting to me are those about our mother's numerous cousins who interacted with my family while growing up in Gary. As you can imagine, I would see them in family gatherings without knowing much about who they were, what they did, or how they were related to me. But I can also fill in and update some details about my nuclear family, if you want to try to keep up with the challenging task of tracking the whereabouts of the current young adult generation of our family.

So here goes with some details that are either missing or can be updated:

Sue and I were married on 5/5/83 with two friends in attendance at the Brown County courthouse in Green Bay, Wisconsin. We filled out a form, met with a judge, and officially certified our marriage after living together since August 1977. Oh, and Sue was born 11/21/57 (you just have the year) and worked for 20 years teaching in the Trumansburg, NY school district before retiring three days from today.

I don't know if you want these additional type of details, but perhaps following a family pattern, Thomas Kraft married Regan Hale at a UPS store in Manhattan Kansas by getting a form notarized in June 2021, though I'm not sure of the date. Tom and Regan now live in Salt Lake City where he is a Professor of Anthropology at the University of Utah. Tom is likely our son most likely to remain living in the same place with the same employer for a while. Max lives in Cambridge, MA with Jesse Kaplan-Bie and has worked for several biotech companies, and I think (knock on wood) they will stay together for a quite a while. Ben is currently unemployed after getting paid a lot as a computer programmer for small and well-known firms (Google, Salesforce). He currently lives in Mammoth Lakes, CA, having moved there early in the pandemic, then was laid off by Salesforce a few months ago (Salesforce purchased Slack who purchased the small tech firm Ben had worked for). I don't know what he's going to do next.

I worked for the University of Wisconsin Sea Grant Program from 1981-1998 as a fishery biologist housed at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay. In 1998 I became a Cornell faculty member in the Department of Natural Resources, which is when we moved to Freeville (very close to Ithaca) and I'm likely going to retire in the next year or two. The basic description you have about me is correct, so in the two prior sentences I've added a few details that might or might not be useful.

But as I said at the outset, it's hard to maintain an accurate record of the current young generation, plus others might be like me in wanting to know about earlier generations about which there are fewer readily accessible details. Still, I'm glad you are trying to maintain this record of our common family history, so thanks for doing that.

I hope you and your family are doing well. I don't have any plans to be in Oregon again soon, though I'll certainly let you know if I head that way.

- Cliff

I just received a phone call from Anita Weinberg. Her mother, Lila Weinberg, passed away yesterday. Lila's father was a Schaffer and brother to Max Schaffer. Lila had a stroke about a month ago and then the doctors discovered that she had cancer as well. I do not have much information. Funeral arrangements are being made with the Weinstein Funeral Home. All I know is that the funeral will be on Tuesday at 12:30 at Weinstein Funeral Home, 111 Skokie Blvd, Wilmette, IL.

Lila Weinberg's three daughters didn't think much of it when their parents used family vacation time to research their latest book.

That meant libraries and places children might think unusual for a getaway became part of the adventure. "They wanted to see his house," recalled Mrs. Weinberg's daughter Anita. "By the time we were there, it was being used as a dilapidated rooming house. We were frightened that we were going to end up staying there that night."

She quit school to get a job to help support her family, relatives said.

For eight years Mrs. Weinberg worked for Ziff Davis Publications in Chicago and New York. She started as a secretary and ended her tenure as a managing editor, her daughter said.

As a baby, Mrs. Weinberg met the man she would marry more than 30 years later. Arthur Weinberg, four years older than Lila, was the son of a family friend who also was from Krinik and had moved to Humboldt Park.

Shortly after Mrs. Weinberg was born, Arthur Weinberg and his mother visited to meet the baby.

"At one point, he was wanting to go home," Anita Weinberg recalled. His mother said, "'Give me a little more time. Go play with Lila.' My father apparently said, 'I can't play with her. She can't talk.'"

The two reunited in their 30s and married in 1953 after two years of a long-distance courtship. Mrs. Weinberg lived in New York while they dated, but she moved back to Chicago to get married, her daughter said.

Within four years, the couple had three daughters, including twin girls. The Weinbergs raised their family in South Shore and Hyde Park. Mrs. Weinberg was an editor at the University of Chicago </topic/education/colleges-universities/university-of-chicago-OREDU0000151.topic> Press - she retired at 81 - and Arthur Weinberg was a trade reporter for Fairchild Publications.

While both teaching social justice issues at the DePaul University </topic/education/depaul-university-OREDU000019.topic> School for New Learning, the Weinbergs raised a tightknit family and co-wrote seven books, including a few about Darrow.

In the late 1950s, they helped begin an annual commemoration of Darrow's death by throwing a wreath on the anniversary of his death over a bridge named for him in Jackson Park </topic/travel/tourism-leisure/gardens-parks/jackson-park-PLREC000072.topic>. Attendees hope for an answer from beyond the grave.

Mrs. Weinberg's daughters say their mother was a warm, "quiet force" who used writing as her tool for social justice activism. She and her husband were avid researchers at the Newberry Library.

"There were always ideas being talked about and debates going on," Anita Weinberg said.

Arthur Weinberg died in 1989 of complications from lymphoma.

Mrs. Weinberg, who was called a "master Scrabbler" by daughter Wendy, liked to spend time with her six grandchildren. She would send them instant messages, though they were a paragraph long as opposed to a simple "LOL."

Mrs. Weinberg also is survived by another daughter, Hedy.

A service will be held at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday at Weinstein Funeral Home, 111 Skokie Blvd., Wilmette.

A challenging call to arms for today's writers to have the courage of the muckrakers

and expose abuse of power wherever they find it

As the twentieth century opened, Americans were jolted out of their laissez-faire complacency by detailed exposures, in journalism and fiction, of the corruption underlying the country's greatest institutions. This rude awakening was the work of the muckrakers, as Theodore Roosevelt christened these press agents for reform.

From 1902, when it latched onto such mass circulation magazines as Collier's and McClure's, until it merged into the Progressive movement in 1912, muckraking relentlessly pricked the nation's social conscience by exposing the abuses of industry and politics. Ranging in tone from the scholarly to the sensational, muckraking articles attacked food adulteration, unscrupulous insurance practices, fraudulent claims for patent medicines, and links between government and vice. When muckrakers raised their voices against child labor, graft, monopoly, unsafe mill conditions, and the white slave trade of poor immigrant girls, they found a receptive audience. "I aimed at the public's heart," wrote Upton Sinclair about The Jungle, "and by accident I hit it in the stomach."

Gathering the most significant pieces published during the heyday of the muckraking movement, The Muckrakers brings vividly to life this unique era of exposure and self-examination. For each article, Arthur and Lila Weinberg provide concise commentary on the background of its subject and the specific and long-range repercussions of its publication. The volume features the work of both journalists and fiction writers, including Ida Tarbell, Lincoln Steffens, Upton Sinclair, Ray Stannard Baker, Samuel Hopkins Adams, Thomas W. Lawson, Charles Edward Russell, and Mark Sullivan.

Eloquent and uncompromising, the muckrakers shocked America from a state of lethargy into Progressive reform. This generous volume vividly captures the urgency of their quest.

The late Arthur Weinberg was a nationally prominent journalist who taught at the University of Chicago. Lila Weinberg lives in Chicago.

Historical tour guide in Atlanta. Letter from Helen Alperin to Bertha Avis dated August 12, 1996, "Joe and I had an interesting 5 days at the begining of the Olympics. Had 2 of the Munich orphans staying with us....2 darling girls, who were infantswhen their fathers were murdered. I am sure you must have read about that delegation who were here seeking recognition for their fathers by the IOC. Too bad the bombing here may have been the catalyst, but we'll never really know. Anyhow, by virtue of hosting the two girls, we were invited to an official reception given by the Consulate....even shook hands with the mayor of Jerusalem, which my daughter said was a no-no, since he is a member of Likud. However, this was not a political occasion, and Ohlmert only came to Atlanta as a spectator, not in an official capacity. The whole experience of having the girls here --- Anouk Spitzer and Shlomit Romano --- was a real eye-opener and made us first-hand realize that impact those murders have to this very day."

"About Aliza (according to John)...

Aliza graduated from Indiana University in 1992, with a degree in Business and Telecommunications. Director of the Student Athletic Board, Phi Beta Kappa, homecoming queen, blah blah blah...

After college she jumped right into the go-go world of business consulting (don't ask... even she can't tell you what she did). She was very successful, but as the years wore on she became lonely. Success wasn't all it was cracked up to be without someone to share it with. That's where

From their web page shortly before their wedding:

"About John (according to Aliza)

John graduated from University of California at Berkley in 1991 with a double major in History and Political Science. Rather than go on to graduate school (as his degrees so aptly prepared him), John fled the country to Hungary to teach history for 2 years. In 1993 John returned to San Jose to work for a small Japanese microscope distributor. Are you sensing a lack of purpose here? That's where I came in...

John has now progressed from a closet web geek to a full-fledged "Web Technologist," leading a team of 5 who support AOL's online wallet technology."

- i. CHASE⁸ HUTCHISON was born on 29 May 2005.

Notes for Chase Hutchison:

Chase was born this morning at 9:15 a.m. eastern time. He weighed in at a hefty 8#13 oz so Aliza is well on her way to losing her pregnancy weight! Measured 20.5" long. Latched onto nurse right away. Mother and son are doing fine.

We are all pleased. Aliza says it is "another project delivered on time." So like her. She called us about 20 min after giving birth. They let her use her cell phone and apparently are allowed to use their cell phone in their rooms. She is at Stanford Univ. Hospital so it must be state of the art!

Aliza and Chase go home Tuesday. Well timed birth. Daddy John will not have to take off extra work time. And his parents are there to take care of Ava, Chase and Aliza. We go out mid June to relieve them.

Ava has already been to the hospital to see her little brother and was very gentle and loving.

Pictures should follow as soon as Daddy gets some sleep and has a chance to put them online.
