

Still Here

Take a gentle look round – it might seem I'm not here
But now that I'm gone, I did not disappear
I'm still in your heart and still in your head
Just not hogging the tv remote, or your side of the bed
I'm still in the memories of the people we know
You'll still feel my presence in the places we'd go
I'm still in the minds of our family and friends
That love and that friendship – that never ends
Carry on doing the things that we'd do
I'll always be part of what's special to you
Still go to the match, or a day at the races
Please, don't shy away from our favourite places
It's ok to laugh, and it's ok to cry
Include my name in the round, when your glass has run dry
I'm still in your thoughts as you pause for a while
To remember that laugh and that huge great big smile
Still rockin' out to Deep Purple, or favourite songs you might hear Recall daft things said and done and I'll always be near
I'll be forever in Failsworth, our garden, our home
Forever part of your life, even when you're alone
So when the time's right, don't spend long being sad
Remember the laughter, the good times we had
For all that we've shared and all that will be
Think of me often, and fondly, and you'll always have me
Still shout and scream at Old Trafford
Whether dismayed or excited
Keep Dave in your hearts, and you're forever UNITED
