

Westley Febo Diaz

Born in Puerto Rico in 1986 started his interest in music and arts at a young age. He began music lessons with drums and acoustic guitar at the age of 11. His passion for music was fueled by his early interest in literature and poetry. Writing poetry was a talent he developed through his youth years, awakening the interest in lyrics and melody creation. Febo wrote his first song at the early age of 16.

His music style is influenced by electronic, ballad, reggae roots, alternative rock, hip hop and reggaeton and classical genres. He started his presence in the music industry with reggaeton in the Puerto Rican underground music scene, where he had the opportunity to collab with peer emerging artists and record some of his themes.

After pursuing and accomplishing a military career in the ARMY, Westley decided to pursue his professional studies in recording arts enrolling to start an associate degree in the: Liceo de Arte y Tecnologia de Puerto Rico, acquiring more knowledge, experience in the Audio industry. He began to learn base guitar as an autodidact and enriched his learning process with introductory theory lessons at Fonava Music Studios in Puerto Rico.

In 2023 he enrolled in Full Sail University where is currently studying a bachelor in Recording Arts.
