What You Should Know About the Ethical Practice of Professional Counselors
Approved by the ACA Governing Council, October, 1999

As clients make decisions concerning the professional counselor from whom they will seek services, they should realize that there are standard practices and procedures that they can expect. Many of these practices and procedures are driven by the code of ethics that your professional counselor is bound to follow, the American Counseling Association's (ACA) Code of Ethics & Standards of Practice. This document offers some highlights specifically relevant to you as a consumer. You have the right to ask your professional counselor for a complete copy of the ACA Code of Ethics & Standards of Practice. The following will highlight some of these practices and procedures that you should expect from your professional counselor.

What to expect:

- ❖ Your professional counselor will describe their qualifications and areas of expertise.
- ❖ Your professional counselor will treat you with respect and dignity, especially regarding age, color, culture, disability, ethnic group, gender, race, religion, sexual orientation, marital status, or socioeconomic status.
- ❖ Your professional counselor will inform you of the purposes, goals, techniques, procedures, limitations, potential risks, and benefits of all counseling services that you will receive. You may request this information in writing.
- ❖ Your professional counselor will inform you of and allow you to discuss matters of confidentiality, privacy, and disclosure of information. They will also inform you of the limitations to confidentiality.
- ❖ Your professional counselor will inform you of all service-related financial arrangements before entering the counseling relationship. You may request this information in writing.
- ❖ Your professional counselor will, when necessary, assist in making appropriate alternative service arrangements. Such arrangements may be necessary following termination, at follow-up, and for referral. *When questions or concerns arise regarding services requested or received, please discuss them immediately with your professional counselor. If such questions cannot be answered or a resolution is reached, don't hesitate to contact the ACA for advice or counsel at 1-800-347-6647, ext. 314, or plr@counseling.org.

How to file an ethics complaint with the ACA Ethics Committee:

The ACA has jurisdiction only over professional counselors who are ACA members or who were members during the time of the alleged behavior. The first step in the process is to fax or mail a request for membership verification (Membership verifications cannot be done by phone). This can be a one-or two-sentence request, such as "I would like to verify if (professional counselor) of (city, state) was an ACA member during (month/year)." Your signature, as well as a return address, must be included. If it is determined that ACA does have jurisdiction, a standard ethics complaint form will be sent to you.

Membership verification requests are sent to the following address or fax number:

American Counseling Association
ACA Professional Learning & Resources - ACA Ethics
5999 Stevenson Avenue Alexandria, VA 22304
Attn: ACA Ethics Committee Liaison (CONFIDENTIAL)
Fax: 703-823-3760

The standard ethics complaint form will ask you to include the following:

1. Your name, address, phone number and email address
2. Name, address, and phone number of the professional counselor about whom you are filing the complaint
3. Brief description of the reason why the complaint is being filed

You will also receive a copy of the ACA Code of Ethics & Standards of Practice. The ACA Ethics Committee Liaison will send you a letter acknowledging the receipt of your complaint and asking for any other information the Committee might need at that time. If the professional counselor is or was an ACA member, the Committee liaison will guide you through the ACA's process of determining whether an ethics violation occurred. If they are not a member, the liaison will describe other options you may have. For additional information, please call ACA at 1-800-347-6647, ext. 314, or email plr@counseling.org.
