

Privacy Policy

Whether you are a donor, a volunteer, an organization, or a community partner, our commitment to conduct business honestly and protect your privacy is at the heart of our Privacy Promise.

We respect your confidentiality. NOHF requires that your personal information be held in strict confidence. We use your information only for its intended business purpose. We do not sell or trade your information to other organizations or individuals.

We protect your information. NOHF takes every possible measure to insure that your information is not compromised in any way. If you are a participant in one of our programs, we may have you sign in for chapter tracking purposes. We will NOT share any of your personal information with any of our partners or sponsors.

Our privacy promise extends online to our Internet website. Online event registration information is transmitted via a secure server using encryption technology and will never be shared with any other entity.

If you choose to send us email, we may retain the contents of your email message, our reply and your email address as part of our ongoing customer service efforts. We reserve the right to contact you after you have contacted us and may send future e-mail and/or surveys to you about NOHF. You may notify us via email if you wish to discontinue electronic communication.

We keep your personal information as accurate, complete, and up to date as is required to fulfill the purpose(s) for which you provided us with your personal information. Upon request in writing, we will remove your personal information from our databases, except where legislation or regulation requires our retention of it (for example, charitable giving history tied to income tax receipts.)

If you have any questions about our website or our Privacy Policy, please contact the office at (216) 834-0051.
