

Applicants for the law clerk position should be prepared for projects including intake of potential clients, meetings with current clients, work in clinics, research and drafting for litigation, letter writing, document preparation, and preparation of memos and presentations.

Applicants should have strong communication skills (oral and written). This includes the ability to communicate clearly with lawyers, clients, and potential clients who may have limited capacity. Applicants should be committed to social justice and prepared to take a trauma-informed approach to meeting our clients' needs. Applicants must be able to work in a collaborative environment.

Law clerks may receive academic credit or work as pro bono volunteers. Because of the nature of our work, we ask that applicants be able to volunteer at least 8 hours per week.
