Artist Spotlight

The artist of the month for March is Nicholas! His area of expertise is media arts, but he can be seen here expanding his artist's toolbox. Nick is working on a knitting project in Creative Arts. Maybe he can knit a scarf for us to help us stay warm during rainy March days

Thanks, Nicholas!

Words Of Wisdom

By Kyle

I can't believe the news today
I can't close my eyes, make it go away
How long? How long must we sing this song?
How long? How long?
'Cause tonight
We can be as one tonight

Broken bottles under children's feet
Bodies strewn across the dead end street
I won't heed the battle call
It puts my back up, my back up against the wall

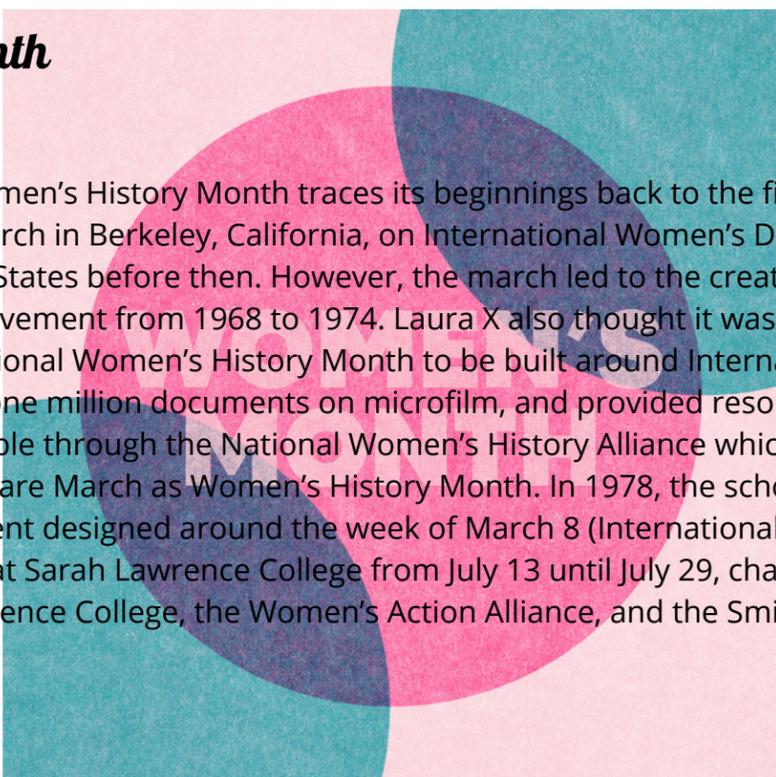

My choice was for the words of wisdom for March is the song "Sunday Bloody Sunday" by U2

I have chosen this song because St. Patrick's Day is celebrated in March and U2 is an Irish Band. This song in particular describes how an Irish person felt during the Bloody Sunday incident in Derry during 1972 where unarmed civil rights protesters were shot by British troops. Shows how a person could be affected by a traumatizing moment in life for some and beyond that time.

History of Women's History Month

By Ian

In the United States, Women's History Month traces its beginnings back to the first International Women's Day in 1911. Laura X organized a march in Berkeley, California, on International Women's Day in 1969; But International Women's Day had been largely forgotten in the United States before then. However, the march led to the creation of The Women's History Research Center, a central archive of the women's movement from 1968 to 1974. Laura X also thought it was unfair for half of the human race to have only one day a year and called for National Women's History Month to be built around International Women's Day. The Women's History Research Center collected nearly one million documents on microfilm, and provided resources and records of the Women's Liberation Movement that are now available through the National Women's History Alliance which carried on their ideas, including successfully petitioning Congress to declare March as Women's History Month. In 1978, the school district of Sonoma, California participated in Women's History Week, an event designed around the week of March 8 (International Women's Day). In 1979, a fifteen-day conference about women's history was held at Sarah Lawrence College from July 13 until July 29, chaired by historian Gerda Lerner. It was co-sponsored by Sarah Lawrence College, the Women's Action Alliance, and the Smithsonian Institution.

Let's Play Ball!

By Greg

Baseball season is coming back on March 28th the Yankees will begin on the road in Houston to face the Astros, and opening day at Yankee Stadium vs the rival Blue Jays on April 5th.

The number one thing I would like to see from this team is there offense because it's the part of the sport that they were missing due to strikeouts in 2023, after acquiring Soto, and Verdugo and that includes pitching like acquiring Marcus Stroman and bolstering there bullpen is a part of the pitching staff's success. Cashman worked so hard on upgrading their coaching staff to go on a chase for 28 so far.
