Words Of Wisdom

By Rachel

"You think you own whatever land you land on
The Earth is just a dead thing you can claim
But I know every rock and tree and creature
Has a life, has a spirit, has a name"

lyrics from
Colors of the Wind

What these lyrics mean to me, is that we should be nice to the world, to the plants, and all of the animals. All the living creatures in the world deserve respect.

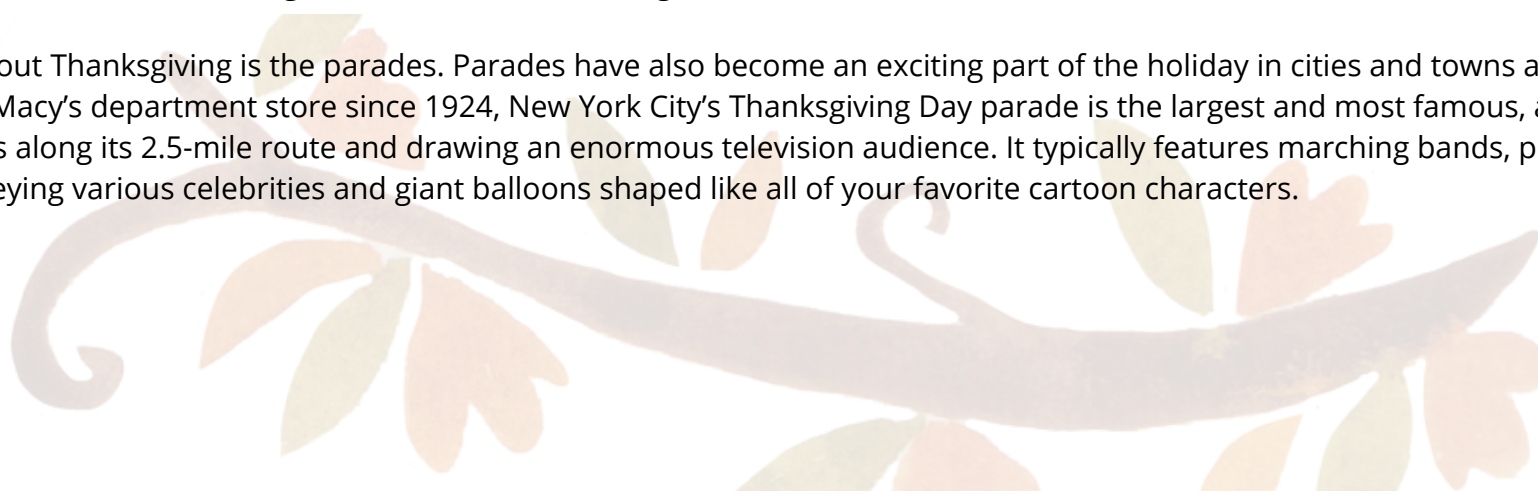

Thanksgiving Past and Present

By Stuart

This thankful piece of history goes way back to November 1621, when the newly arrived Pilgrims and the Wampanoag Indians gathered at Plymouth for an autumn harvest celebration. On their first feast, the colonists were likely outnumbered more than two to one by their Native American guests. The first dish of the feast was Turkey. The wild ones (not domestic) were indeed plentiful in the region and a common food source for both English settlers and Native Americans. Although the fowling party returned with other birds we know the colonists regularly consumed, such as ducks, geese and swans. Instead of bread-based stuffing, herbs, onions or nuts might have been added to the birds for extra flavor.

Another fun thing about Thanksgiving is the parades. Parades have also become an exciting part of the holiday in cities and towns across the United States. Presented by Macy's department store since 1924, New York City's Thanksgiving Day parade is the largest and most famous, attracting some 2 to 3 million spectators along its 2.5-mile route and drawing an enormous television audience. It typically features marching bands, performers, elaborate floats conveying various celebrities and giant balloons shaped like all of your favorite cartoon characters.

Giving Thanks to Others!

By Kyle S.

Whenever people think of Thanksgiving there are lots of things that come to mind. Stuff like turkeys, big dinners, football, and parades are usually the most common. However one that doesn't get much attention would be charities. People should know that there are others in the world that might not have enough resources to celebrate the holidays. For example, many can't even get a good meal. Luckily places called food banks like Feeding America are out there to help provide for those who are short on food in this country. Another way this issue can be helped is whenever you see a local food drive in your neighborhood to think about making a donation. Food banks are open for any offers of food to donate. Especially any canned goods, as those are the most popular donation options they ask for.

Another group to consider is the Hillside Food Outreach, where they are a high quality food-to-client delivery service that focuses on meeting personal nutritional needs for those with low income. In fact, one event they have set this month would be the 1st annual Ladles of Love Soup Supper event. If you'd like to attend, this event is held on the 10th of November at the Villa Barone Hilltop Manor in Mahopac at 6pm. If you'd like to have a good Thanksgiving this year, but want to make it even better, how about making a donation to those less fortunate? Consider that your way of giving thanks to others.
