

Hero's Portrait Project Invitation

There comes a time when our lives change where we do not continue on with the chosen career we once did.

It may have been due to a myriad of reasons for the ending of our career, it still lives on within us every day.

For many of us, there are snapshots with our friends, families and coworkers at or around work but do not really have a quality professional portrait that tells your story of who you are and what the job personally means or meant to you.

My goal with the hero's portrait project is to give back and provide that professional level portrait for you.

The only investment for you is your time in sitting down with me to discuss, design and schedule the time for your photography session where we will tell your story in an image or series of images.

Once the session is complete, we will review the images and choose the one you would like in print.

This project came about over the years when I saw friends and family giving their lives in the performance of their duties (Military, Fire, EMS and Police) leaving many families behind with few quality printed or painted images representing who they really were and what they have done.

When you receive the final image, I encourage you to share it with your friends and family so it can be enjoyed and appreciated.

When we are no longer on this earth, all our family and friends have to really remember us is through printed imagery and the story that goes along with it.

This is just a token of my thanks to you for your service to this great country and community you have or continue to serve.

Contact me now to schedule a time for us to meet and discuss your story and image design.

Rex Madden

M. Photog, CPP

US Army Retired

Firefighter Paramedic Retired