Vision Clarity Self Assessment Tool

Congratulations on taking a first step to gaining clarity of Vision. This alone puts you in a unique class of people. It's common to say you have a Vision, but it's uncommon to actually take the actions to get clear on that Vision so that you can have it come to life.

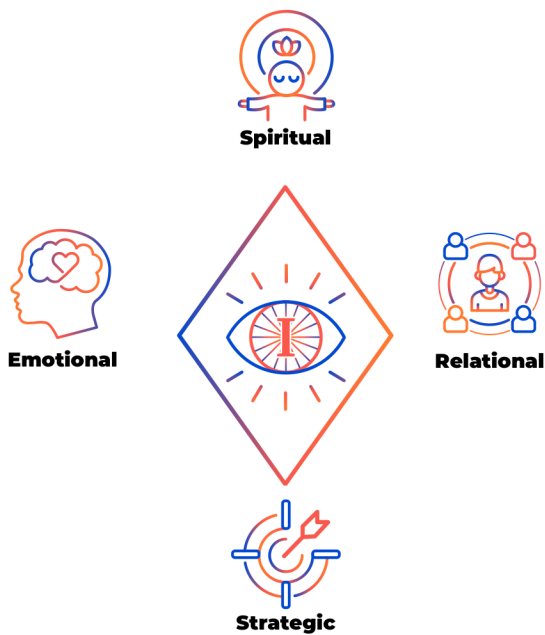

We take Vision clarity to another level. We believe that for a Vision to be truly powerful – to pull you toward it's fulfillment – you must define your Vision in terms of more than just external markers of success.

A powerful Vision is designed from the inside out.

Rather than using external factors alone to define your Vision, a powerful Vision is built on your own definition of success, using your individual values and special genius.

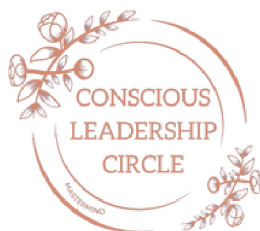

Using this model, you create a life that is truly meaningful and aligned with your deepest aspirations, while meeting and exceeding external success measures.

Diamond Model of Success

We use the Diamond Model of Success to empower you to define this powerful Vision.

In the next few pages, you'll have the opportunity to begin this inward journey to alignment and clarity.

The Four Domains of the Diamond Model of Success

Spiritual

Way of Being - Energetic Presence - Sacred Purpose

The idea of Spirit points to what all people and all things in the Universe have in common: our shared membership in a single cosmos. The fact that every individual person, non-person and thing is some facet of this unified field.

Everything is in the field.

Einstein said: "The Field is the only reality."

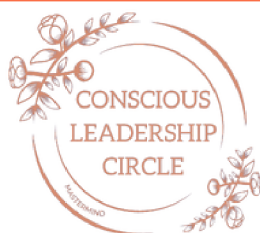

Emotional

Thoughts/Feelings/Unconscious Beliefs

Your emotional world impacts your behaviors and actions. Becoming conscious of the thoughts you put your attention on and their impact on your feelings and behaviors moves you from a victim to your thoughts to the Creator of your Vision.

When your emotional world empowers your vision, you have coherence. You can learn to generate coherence using a variety of methods and tools, resulting in reduced stress and and ultimately actions that produce your Vision.

The Four Domains of the Diamond Model of Success

Relational

Quality, Quantity, and Coherence of Relationships

Consider that no success can be achieved alone and a good life is characterized by the quality of your relationships.

When you are free to be fully yourself in your primary relationships, you have coherence. Expanding your ability to deal with conflict, be vulnerable and honest, take clear accountability for your commitments, and be free from placing blame, you have true Relational Power to bring forth your Vision.

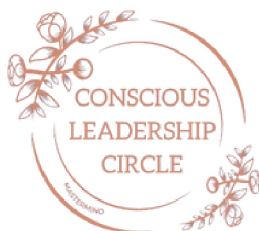

Strategic

Mechanical, Strategic, Tactical –where, when, how

This is the domain most focus on when considering bringing a vision to life. The domain of Strategy focuses on the "doing" in reality and includes our physical well-being as well as capabilities and knowledge.

Power in Strategy relies on less rather than more. The focus is the "essential few" and clarity of what is yours to accomplish and what should be delegated to another.

All transformation starts on the Inside

PUT WHAT MATTERS MOST BACK AT THE CENTER OF YOUR LIFE -

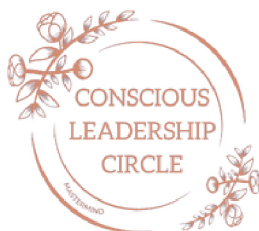

The points of the Diamond are domains of life, but everything starts and ends at the center.

With YOU.

Rather than build success based on outward expressions, we define success based on your Inner definition. What is most congruent with YOU - with your Values, with your desires, with your Truth.

Once you understand what really matters, you can begin to align your outer world - the points on the diamond - to your Inner world. This is the beginning of real power.

When your entire life aligns - both Inner and Outer Worlds - you have congruence, and focused power - and your Vision will come to life.

How Coherent Is Your Field?

A coherent field brings your vision to life. Based on what you most want in life right now, consider the four domains, and rate them.

On a scale of 1 - 10, how supportive is each of these domains to your vision and the life you desire.

A 10 means that domain is in full alignment with your vision, and a 1 means it's completely out of alignment.
