SEATTLE - Feb. 23, 2019 - PRLog -- Gamespark is pleased to announce they commenced expansion of their new licensing program for the United States. The Gamespark brand has a rich history since the year 1999 when it was among the pioneers in social networking, and online social game play. Since 1999 Gamespark has been connecting online video game players all over the world via its advanced chat and game play platform. Now the brand is quickly growing, and bringing a fresh generation of entrepreneurs into the fold. Given the new talent joining the group, management is strongly optimistic in its growth efforts to promote areas of game design and education, and partnerships with schools, advertisers and licensees.

"The new licensing plans being introduced allow Gamespark to grow in all aspects as we continue to expand our operations around the globe," says Alex M., operations manager. "Our company's mission is to provide the highest level of value-added services to our game players, advertisers, and game development partners. In addition, we are in the midst of hiring educators for the Gamespark school programs which we are very excited about, as this will create a the future generation of Gamespark enthusiasts."

Gamespark is the original leader in leveraging social networking capabilities to connect the gaming community to established local, national, and international resources. The new licensing plans offer a highly diversified economic and services environment for Gamespark to grow as the leading gaming hub, by providing an opportunity for entrepreneurs to become a part of the branded network.
