Meet Pierre...

I've had a fair share of experience supporting individuals with autism, focusing on communication, routine, and understanding each person's unique needs. I enjoy helping them build confidence, develop social skills, and reach their personal goals in a positive and patient way. I have been working with people with autism since my first day in the industry—while it can be challenging at times, it's also incredibly rewarding and fun, especially when working with younger people who are always enthusiastic about participating in activities.

Over the years, I've truly enjoyed my work in this industry, particularly supporting children and teenagers with disabilities. They're often easier to engage with and bring such energy and excitement to each session, which makes my work both enjoyable and fulfilling. Outside of work, I love music, soccer, video games, and going to the gym.
