Meet Lachlan...

Hi, my name is Lachlan. I have worked in the disability sector in New Zealand since 2011 as a neurodivergent support worker, mentor, and advocate, mostly for children, young adults, and autistic adults.

I started working as a disability support worker in Australia in May 2024 and love connecting with many amazing people here in Melbourne. I currently work with 4 clients who are autistic. I have lived experience and have worked with autistic people in New Zealand as a support worker and an advocate. I was also a board member for Autism New Zealand and a Chair for Te Pou's Disability Workforce Development advisory group.

I am a compassionate, understanding, experienced, and friendly person who loves to walk, explore new things, meet new people, watch movies, eat delicious food, and go for coffee. I also love interacting with animals. I am experienced in transport support, employment support, social connectedness support, admin support, advocacy, and assisting with occupational therapy support. I look forward to meeting and supporting you.
