

PROFILE

Colonel Mark Robertson has deep ties to the community, 30 years of military service, and international experience.

Mark and his wife, Lesly, raised their family in Southern Nevada. He owned a small business in the district and taught in our public schools and UNLV.

Mark is a leader in his Church. He volunteered his time to coach Little League, soccer, and basketball and as Vice-Chair of Henderson's Sr. Citizen Advisory Commission. Mark lives, works, plays, serves, and worships in the community. He is accountable to the people of his district because they are his family, friends, and neighbors.

Mark has a proven record of honesty, integrity, and putting the needs of others ahead of his own.

CAMPAIGN EXPERIENCE

During the 2022 primary, Mark was outspent by several other candidates but still won by nearly a two-to-one margin over the closest competitor. He received over 100,000 votes in the general election.

Mark's opponent in the election received the smallest percentage of votes of all other congressional Democrats who won in Nevada.

Less than a week before the general election, Mark led the polls by as much as 12%. Amazing for a first-time candidate.

Hundreds of organizations and people endorsed Mark, including police unions, business associations, and conservative groups.
