Pursuit Pro1 Technologies

A decorative graphic in the top right corner consisting of a network of red dots connected by thin red lines, resembling a molecular or technological structure.

MachPro Polymer Core - Renowned for its unparalleled power. This new innovative core (never used before and designed by Engage) has been optimized to deliver maximum power while maintaining an extended hold time at the point of contact with the ball, resulting in enhanced spin and control on every shot.

Redesigned Shape - More aerodynamic paddle shape to increase swing speed, allowing for faster hand speed, creating more power and spin while optimizing the sweet spot for maximum forgiveness.

Variable Release 2.0 Technology - Exclusive to the Pursuit Pro1, the 2.0 version amps up the excitement, delivering even more flex than its predecessors (the other paddles in the Pursuit line), so as you start to swing faster, the paddle flex increases, igniting your game with electrifying spin and power.

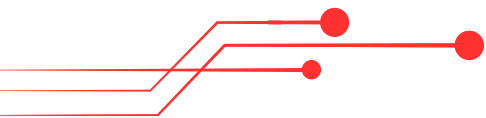

Uniform Handle Circumference: With the introduction of the Pursuit Pro1, the 1/2 inch and 5/8 inch paddle thicknesses feature a consistent 4 1/4 inch grip circumference.

Raw Toray T700 Carbon Fiber and Inner Application Layer - Proprietary layering and bonding technology (with the Raw T700 exposed outer surface) for maximum texture and friction between the ball and surface for unmatched spin.

Vortex Barrier Edge Technology - Next-generation composite injected into the outer cells for weight distribution and vibration control.

Uniform Guard Technology - Bonding of the edge guard and paddle for improved force distribution.

Counter Balance Technology - Lowering the balance point of the paddle for quicker hand speed and less arm fatigue.

Introducing our NEW Dealer Intranet Portal, a private online platform designed specifically for our partners and their authorized personnel. It serves as a centralized hub where dealers can access a range of resources, stay updated on the latest news, and receive important announcements directly from Engage.

1. Resource Library: The intranet provides access to a variety of resources such as marketing materials, product brochures, training videos, sales guides, and technical documentation. This ensures dealers have the information they need to effectively promote and sell products or services.
2. News and Updates: Dealers can stay informed about the latest developments within the company, industry news, product launches, and upcoming events through news feeds, announcements, and newsletters posted on the intranet.
3. Sales Schedule: One of the crucial features of the dealer intranet is the availability of the sales schedule. This includes information about upcoming promotions, discounts, and annual sales events. Dealers can plan their marketing strategies and inventory accordingly based on this schedule.
7. Training and Development: Many dealer intranets offer training modules and educational resources to help dealers improve their product knowledge, sales skills, and customer service abilities. This could include online courses, quizzes, and certification programs.
8. Feedback and Support: Dealers can provide feedback, ask questions, and request support through the intranet. This could be in support tickets, surveys, or feedback forms, helping improve communication between dealerships and the parent company.
