

Evolving

By C.E. Warner 1-7-21

Evolving is greatly overrated.
Change moves at the speed of melting glaciers.
Some realities are complicated,
as interconnected instigators.

Natural forces follow nature's laws.
Conditionally, steam is water and ice.
Universe expands outward without pause.
Living, dying; thoughtless of men's advice.

Most powers in life are beyond control,
determined by reality's hard facts.
My task is to find things I can extol,
and then peace can illumine my acts.

Man's evolution may be beyond me,
but my personal growth I can still see.