

Patton's Third Army-WWII

By: C.E. Warner 11-5-21

I worked with a man named Walt in the 70's. He was in Patton's Third Army in WWII. He drove a gasoline truck during the march to Berlin from 1944 thru 1945. This is a summary of my memories of our conversations.

Second day landing on Omaha beach.

Unfathomable carnage and death seen.

Must deliver supplies into the breach,
and return with bodies from war machine.

Assigned Third Army, logistics-transport.

Volunteer drive gasoline truck for tanks.

Crossed Europe with safely distant escort.

Others always gave wide berth to our ranks.

Battle of the bulge, allies overrun.

Stop one battle, march in snow to rescue.

Tired, riding my truck, new friends everyone.

Rescued, Christmas miracle can best you.

I survived the years of nightmare of hells.

Only God knows why and He never tells.
