

Anglin' Wayne & the Trollers

It's often been said that there are two universally beloved human experiences in this world, falling in love and going fishing.

From Anglin' Wayne and his all star string band of trollers comes a concert of original music celebrating our shared love of all things fishing. In the hands of these masterful musicians, songs and stories weave and dart throughout the night with all the beauty and grace of a rainbow trout in love.

No matter how you might arrive on concert night; feeling caught on the stringer or tired from endlessly circling the tank, you're gonna leave like you've just been released into the wild. And when a show stopping songster like Anglin' Wayne gets his hooks into a song about his love of a long summer afternoon drift on the still mirror of his favorite lake, everything will stand still. You'll grab a little bit for yourself of that tonic, that remedy for your modern living, you'll breathe a little deeper and laugh a little easier having taken a refreshing plunge off the dock of your favorite lost lake lodge.
