Positivity Watch Dogs, Iconostars & More

The closer you look, the more you'll notice the through lines in the different sculptures the Healey's make. The most obvious thing is the circles motif that is displayed on the dogs, Iconostars & beyond. This powerful juxtaposition of new life and loss inspired the name Circles of Life and became an enduring symbol throughout their work.

You may also notice that the time on all the watches around the watch dogs necks are all set to 11:11. This is a time where people from all over the world pause and make wishes and prayers for those in need and a time to spread love and positivity to the world.

Since 2007, the Healey's have made over 250 dogs. During the global pandemic they decided the world needed some extra uplifting vibes and that's when the Iconostars and the Watch Dogs evolved to Positivity Watch Dogs each carrying messages of hope and inspiration.

The Healey's have sold their large Positivity Watch Dogs all across the United States and beyond. While many are available for purchase, some are also available for lease.

About The Artists

Elizabeth and Duffy both mostly grew up in Southern California, Elizabeth in Laguna Beach, and Duffy in La Jolla. They met in 1999 and have two grown children, Lilianna who helps with the videos of their art, and Thiesen, who helps production, logistics and marketing, so it's truly a family affair.

Their company, DELT Enterprises, LLC, stands for Duffy, Elizabeth, Lilianna and Thiesen.

In 2011, the Healey's moved from Southern California to North Carolina. In recent years, they have made home between Wilson, North Carolina and Escondido, California.

Although a majority of the Healey's work focuses heavily on dogs, they have made many other forms which you can preview on their website along with hundreds of paintings, and mixed media projects they have made since the late 1990's. Over the years, they have produced six coffee-table books, bringing together their photography, stories, and artistic vision.
