

Strength

Is not a virtue.

Strength is a facade,

Lifted to shield those in pain,

And yet which only produces a barrier

Between the Strong, and comfort.

For empathy cannot traverse

The mountain of Strength,

Which shields the Strong

From deliverance out of Misery,

Trapping those in pain,

In Pain.