MICRO, MINIATURE AND SMALL ORCHIDS

SOPHRONITIS CERNUA

Origin: Brazil, Bolivia & Paraguay

Temperatures: Intermediate to hot growing small size orchid species

Light: Bright light

Watering & Fertilizing: Regular watering and fertilizing year-round

General care: One of the smallest Cattleya species with super cute red blooms. It is easy to grow orchid, and should follow Cattleya plants culture. Grows best under warm to intermediate temperatures, good air movement, drying out between waterings, potted or mounted (prefers mounted without moss), bright light, in the summer time, early or late evening direct sun is ok, in the winter time as bright as possible. Does well outside in Florida year-round, perfect for windowsills, terrariums, vases and greenhouses.
