

Summary of Bibliography of Works

by Francis M. O'Donnell

The following summary has been generated by Copilot, based on its AI analysis of his Bibliography only.

This comprehensive bibliography documents the extensive works and contributions of Francis M. O'Donnell across various fields, including international affairs, governance, social policy, historical research, and cultural heritage. The bibliography covers a wide range of media publications, books, lectures, articles, official UN documents, research projects, and personal writings, showcasing a prolific career dedicated to global governance, peacebuilding, and historical scholarship.

Media Contributions

Francis M. O'Donnell has contributed articles, interviews, and citations to an extensive list of media outlets worldwide. These include major international and regional media such as ABC (Sydney), Atlantic Council (Washington DC), Associated Press (New York), CNN (Belgrade), Financial Times (London), Irish Times (Dublin), Le Monde (Paris), RTÉ News (Dublin), UN publications, and many others spanning Europe, Asia, and the Americas.

Publications

Books and Papers

O'Donnell has authored and co-edited several books and papers focusing on global peace, historical legacies, and cultural heritage. Notable works include:

- Memorialising Emigré Dignity - The Cultural Heritage of St. Anthony's College, Leuven (2025), an anthology based on a webinar commemorating the Irish College Leuven's heritage.
- World Peace – Reclaiming the United Nations and its Ideals (2025), a paper published by the Foundation for Global Governance and Sustainability.
- Resolving the Israel-Palestine Conundrum - a new era (2024), addressing Middle East peace challenges.
- Desperate Hope – Reflections on Survival Pathways for Civilisation (2023), presented to the InterAction Council and supporting its Malta Declaration.
- No Man's Land – Selected Poetry & Art (2020), a collection of poetry and art.
- The O'Donnells of Tyrconnell – A Hidden Legacy (2018), a detailed historical and genealogical study.

Lectures, Webinars, and Panels

O'Donnell has participated in and moderated numerous lectures and panel discussions on current affairs, global governance, and historical topics. Highlights include:

- Moderating sessions on multilateralism and global governance at the World Academy of Art and Science in 2025.
- Panel discussions on Middle East peace, globalization, and inequalities at the Global Baku Forum (2015-2023).
- Lectures on historical and genealogical subjects and heraldic heritage delivered to Irish genealogical societies and at the Sorbonne.

Articles on Current Affairs

O'Donnell's articles address global turbulence, peace, and geopolitical issues. Some significant publications include:

- "Root Causes and Deep Drivers of Global Turbulence" in Cadmus Journal (2025).
- Letters and opinion pieces in the Irish Times and other outlets focusing on the UN Charter and global peace.
- Analyses on the Russia-Ukraine conflict, UN reform, and international responses published by the Atlantic Council, Katoikos-World, and others between 2022 and 2025.
- Early reflections on COVID-19's impact on global governance and leadership challenges.

Scholarly and Historical Journals

O'Donnell has contributed scholarly articles on genealogy, history, and nobility, published in journals such as the Journal of the Genealogical Society of Ireland, History Ireland, and The Irish Sword. Topics include clan revivals, family histories, and genealogical research.

Other Personal Publications

He has authored various reflective and commemorative pieces, including obituaries, cultural reflections, and essays on global harmony and historical events. These writings often appear on Academia.edu and cover topics from Nagorno-Karabakh's cultural heritage to Irish diaspora history.

Global Appeals and Declarations

O'Donnell has co-drafted and co-signed numerous international appeals and declarations concerning peace, humanitarian action, and UN reforms. These include:

- The "UN Charter at 80: A Call to Reclaim its Purpose" by former UN officials and world leaders.
- Letters urging action on the Israel-Palestine conflict and Gaza humanitarian crisis.
- Calls for merit-based UN appointments and support for ceasefires amid global crises.
- Contributions to the UN Secretary-General's New Agenda for Peace and other peace initiatives.

Personal Contributions and Citations in Other Publications

O'Donnell's work is frequently cited in academic, policy, and media publications. These references span topics such as global turbulence, Serbian and Montenegrin reforms, Ukraine's reforms, post-conflict reconstruction, and peacebuilding services. His insights have been featured in journals, books, and reports by reputable institutions and scholars.

UN System Official Documents

He has coordinated, edited and/or authored numerous UN official documents, including human development reports, capacity and humanitarian need assessments, and strategic frameworks related to Ukraine, Serbia-Montenegro, and post-conflict recovery. These documents serve as foundational references for UN programming and policy.

Research Projects Managed

O'Donnell has led major research projects, such as the cultural heritage study of Saint Anthony's College, Leuven, and proceedings for the 900th anniversary of the Sovereign Military Order of Malta. His management has included overseeing consultant teams and publication of key governance frameworks, especially in crisis and post-conflict settings, as well as poverty strategies and national human development reports.

Policy Monographs and Discussion Papers

He has authored policy papers on governance in crisis countries, conflict prevention, humanitarian assistance, and peace services. These works have been presented at international conferences and contributed to UN reforms and UNDP restructuring and strategy development.

Other Works: Strategy and Programme Papers

O'Donnell's earlier works include strategic papers on peace consolidation, rural development, institutional reforms, and emergency support in various countries, demonstrating a long-standing engagement with development and humanitarian issues.

Interviews Published or Broadcast

His expertise has been sought in numerous interviews with international media, including CNN, RTÉ, BBC, and regional outlets. Topics cover political crises, global governance, Serbia, Ukraine, and historical heritage. Interviews span from 2000 to 2025 and are available in multiple languages.

Artistic and Literary Work

O'Donnell is also a poet and composer, with over 300 poems and musical compositions such as The Azure Suite. Some of his poetry and art have been published, with more works pending.

Private and Unpublished Works

In addition to his work on global governance, conflict resolution, human rights, justice, socio-economic policy and advocacy issues, he maintains extensive private research on Irish genealogy and history, including studies on ancient titles, family legacies, and historical stewardship. Several long-study works are in preparation or pending publication.

This bibliography reflects the breadth and depth of Francis M. O'Donnell's contributions to global governance, peace, history, and culture, documenting a career marked by scholarly rigor, policy impact, and cultural preservation.