Post-Training Equipment Use & Responsibility Notice

This notice is provided to clarify expectations regarding the use of aesthetic equipment following completion of training at G21 Aesthetics Academy.

G21 Aesthetics Academy operates as an education and training provider. All programs are delivered within a structured, education-focused training environment and are not medical or clinical treatment services.

Use of Equipment During Training

For safety, liability, and regulatory reasons, self-treatment or independent use of RF microneedling equipment is not permitted within the G21 training environment, regardless of professional background. All equipment use during training is limited to supervised educational demonstrations and learning activities as defined by the program.

Post-Training Use

Once training has concluded and the participant is outside of G21 Aesthetics Academy premises, any use of aesthetic equipment is the sole responsibility of the individual.

G21 Aesthetics Academy:

- Does not supervise, authorize, or direct post-training equipment use
- Does not provide clinical guidance, treatment instruction, or settings for self-use
- Does not assume liability for independent or self-directed use of equipment

Post-training use of equipment must comply with all local laws, regulations, licensing requirements, and scope-of-practice rules applicable to the individual's jurisdiction.

Limitation of Responsibility

Participation in training does not grant permission, authorization, or certification to perform medical or clinical procedures. Independent use of any equipment after training is not affiliated with, endorsed by, or conducted under G21 Aesthetics Academy.

By proceeding with training and/or equipment purchase, the participant acknowledges and accepts full responsibility for any post-training use of equipment.
