Hello, Ms. Wheeler. Re: Boomer.

In order for me to assess why he and you believe he is entitled to more money after agreeing to accept final payment, according to common law, please briefly explain why or how in your forthcoming letter.

Thank you.

Hello Ms. Wheeler,

We haven't received the communication you promised to send. We are eagerly awaiting your response.

As per your request, we want to inform you that we do not have legal representation. You and Boomer called me last Monday to inform us about an impending deadline for filing a lawsuit.

Can you please give me your mailing address or some sure way to contact you?

Thank you, Jim

Jim

The client is reviewing the letter I drafted. He has been out of town and will get to it as soon as he can. Please note that the common law does not play a role in a mechanics lien claim. Mechanics liens are creatures of statute and both the lien and the lien release must comply to be enforceable.

Regards-Julianne Wheeler

Thank you. I look forward to receiving the letter. Please email it to jim@landarizona.NET

Btw, you had made reference to common law in your call. I thought you may have meant common sense. 😊

Jim

Dear Julianne Wheeler, Rodney Schlesener, and Emma Poeling,

We find ourselves once again having to divert valuable time away from our core business responsibilities to address the threat of a lawsuit from Team Boomer. We understand that the crux of the issue lies with the conditional waiver form we utilized, which does not precisely mirror the language of Arizona's Lien Waiver and Release Form.

We have dedicated a significant amount of time to studying Arizona's lien statutes and believe we have a thorough understanding of the requirements, including the differences between California and Arizona laws.

We kindly request clarification from Team Boomer regarding which aspect of our form negates our release from liability for additional charges. Could you please provide specific details on how our release form fails to uphold the parties' expressed intent, as outlined in the form we used?

We are eager to understand any oversight on our part, as it may help us find common ground and reach a mutually acceptable resolution. This understanding could facilitate a constructive discussion and lead to a mutually beneficial outcome.

Thank you for your assistance in resolving this matter.

Sincerely, Jim Kunisch

Good morning, Ms Wheeler.

I think it would be best for us to have a quick convo before you go any further on the Boomer file. Can we call you early on today?

05-06-24_James Kunisch text: 8:48 AM

I have attempted to contact you multiple times today through various messages, and I have also tried reaching out via Boomer's business email. Unfortunately, I have not yet received a reply. We need to address a time-sensitive offer promptly.

05-06-24_James Kunisch text: 8:50 PM

Can you make a 0930 tomorrow, Tuesday, time for convo?

05-07-24_James Kunisch text: 10:18 AM

We received your letter. We will respond today. It is very clear that you have been given incorrect facts, facts in the file, facts documented clearly in written correspondence that will lead you to see that you have no idea what you're engaged in with Mr. Schlesenger. Your assertions are false based on incomplete and incorrect facts. This is not surprising. You will not be able to show that your assertions have any basis. We will illuminate for you the facts and you will need to do the actual review of the documents. We can only continue to take time away from our core responsibilities to deal with this at an ever-increasing cost to HT4, and you.

Jim

Either accept the offer or reject it. There will not be anymore back and forth. The lien waiver is invalid. You can argue about the merits of the claim but the lien claim remains.

You are so uninformed. Stop while you can still get out. OMGosh!
