

Portals of Intent

We all have a deeper connection to the world, if we stop to listen and reconnect.

David Monroe takes artists on a journey back to themselves to create imagery that transports the viewer and fully immerses them into the energy of the moment.

David calls his work Portals of Intent because they are gateways to the intention of spirit and a reconnection to our deeper selves.

Whispers From the Soul

David is a fine art imagist for personal and corporate spaces. He is also a teacher helping artists to rekindle their passion for their art and bring forth their connection to spirit through their own work.

David Can Share:

- His unique approach to the craft of photography
- His unique approach to the tools of the craft
- His understanding of the bigger, more universal teachings that his intentional photography has revealed to him.

Direct, natural, and delightful are words often used to describe David's interview style and provide any interviewer with a lively show.

YOU Can't Have What You're Not Willing to BECOME

Today's fast pace of life has us running around without giving any focused thought to our daily lives, our work, our vacations, or our conversations. We are always hoping to catch up and thus living mindlessly. This leads us to give our lives little if any value.

Approached many times by photographers saying "I no longer like my work" when it's clearly fantastic work, David saw they had No Attachment to their work.

Teaching photographers to tap into their true essence for insight and clarity while drawing unique associations to the tools of their craft opens new ways for them to create imagery from their true essence reflecting their intention.

Artists of all types can find inspiration in David's teachings.
Photographers of all levels can find a deeper way to connect to their own expression.
Anyone who appreciates fine art can be transported through the portals David creates.

Reviews

David is both a master teacher of photography and artist of the spirit. He shares his heightened sense of magic and wonder with those willing to explore beyond their knowing. Through his dedication to living authenticity, he empowers others on their journey of self-discovery!

"As a consultant to photographers worldwide and a spiritual teacher to many, I know the importance that a deep connection to the divine plays in the creation of a piece of art.

David Monroe's quest to empower artists to deepen their connection to the divinity that lies within, is a gift to each artist who is wise enough to seek his guidance and to us all!"

David takes the mechanics of photography and pushes the envelope to exploit the medium and define a new genre of the craft. He is no longer a photographer, he is an Imagist.

David Monroe has been a professional photographer for 40 years; but, he began to realize as he slowed down to listen to his spirit, It communicated with him about his connection to the world around him. These distinct messages began weaving themselves into his imagery creating a journey through Portals Intention.

David's work offers the viewer a visual and spiritual opening...a portal to be transported into and touched by the messages David receives; an opportunity for the viewer to be flooded by the spirit of intention.

His classes and retreats offer artists the opportunity to find their own deeper connection to authentic creation and communion into the realm of the subtle, the unseen, and the emotionally resonant in his imagery.
