What is AOD-9604?

This FDA approved compound is a derivative of HGH (human growth hormone), more specifically, a modified version of HGH's peptide fragment 176-191. Designed for greater lipolysis, AOD-9604 was engineered to have the catabolic (fat-burning) effects of HGH, without it's (muscle-building) anabolic effects.

Importance?

According to CDC data, approximately 73% of all adults in the U.S. are overweight; about 42% of which are clinically obese! AOD-9604, like growth-hormone, stimulates the pituitary gland and regulates metabolism without any adverse effects on IGF-1 or insulin levels, making it a safe and effective part of the overall solution for obesity.

Benefits?

AOD-964 has proven to increase metabolism, enhance lipolysis (turning fat into energy), inhibit lipogenesis (transformation of non-fatty foods into body fat), improve weight loss and even aid in bone and cartilage repair and regeneration. All this while avoiding any immune system response due to the similarities with it's origin compound, HGH.
