FALL SAFETY TIPS:

As the weather gets cooler your pups will enjoy being outside more, but instead of the sun there are other hazards to worry about.

- Campfires and Firewood: Can cause burns and intestinal blockage if ingested.
- Mushrooms: Some mushrooms are highly toxic and can cause life-threatening problems in pets.
- Corn cobs: If ingested can cause intestinal blockage.
- Snakes: Snakes are preparing for hibernation and may be more active. Know which venomous snakes are in our area and what to do if a bite occurs.
- Apples: Apples are great for dogs, but apple cores and seeds can be toxic and cause intestinal blockages.
- Antifreeze: As temperatures drop, antifreeze spills become more common. Antifreeze is highly toxic to pets, even in small amounts.
- Rodenticides: Cooler weather often leads to increased use of rodenticides to control pests. These substances are extremely toxic to pets if ingested.

Enjoy the crisp weather with your furry friends, but always be vigilant and prepared to keep them safe and healthy.

FEAR FREE TIP OF THE MONTH

INTRODUCING NEW EXPERIENCES:

Sudden changes or new experiences can be overwhelming for dogs, leading to fear or anxiety. Introducing new things slowly and positively can help your dog adapt more comfortably. It is cooling down, and now is the perfect time to bring your dog with you to try out new things. Here's How to Do It:

1. Start Small: Begin with brief, manageable introductions to new experiences, whether it's a new person, place, or object. For example, if you're introducing a new toy, let your dog sniff it and explore it at their own pace.
2. Use Positive Reinforcement: Pair each new experience with something your dog loves, like treats or praise. This creates a positive association and helps your dog feel more comfortable.
3. Gradual Exposure: Increase the duration and intensity of the new experience gradually. For example, if your dog is nervous about car rides, start with short trips around the block before progressing to longer journeys.
4. Stay Calm and Patient: Your dog picks up on your emotions, so stay calm and reassuring. Patience is key to helping your dog build confidence.
5. Monitor Body Language: Pay attention to your dog's body language and adjust the introduction pace based on their comfort level. If they show signs of stress, take a step back and proceed more slowly.

By taking a gradual approach to new experiences, you can help your dog feel more secure and confident.
